Blind Date

Each week we organize a blind date between two of our readers. Then they answer questions about how it went.

This week:

Kitty Ferry, 22, festival organizer meets Ross Mayo, 31, carpenter.

They met in the Oyster Shack restaurant in Bigbury-on-Sea, Devon.

Will they ever meet again?

Kitty talking about Ross

First impressions He had a kind face with a beard ... of course! Every guy has a beard these days! He laughed out loud when he saw me on my bike.

What did you talk about? Music, travel, jobs. I love my job – I get to travel a lot, but only in the UK. I'd love to see more of the world. I love that Ross left a well-paid job in London to be a carpenter. Oh, and me being a 'veggie' – he was surprised that I still eat fish.

Any difficult moments? It was really hot in the restaurant, and I had a big woolly jumper on. I was worried that I looked red!

Best thing about him? He was chatty and funny. He tried to teach me how to wink! We laughed so much people were looking at us! He enjoys life and his work to the full.

Would your friends like him? Oh yes! They would love him.

Describe him in three words. Funny, kind, intelligent.

Did you go on somewhere? Yes, we went for a walk by the sea ... in the rain. I love rain – I ran into the sea and fell over. Ross rescued me.

Did you kiss? Well, he rescued me, didn't he? So, what do you think?!

Marks out of 10? The more we talked, the more I liked him. 8.

Would you like to meet again? We are going to meet again. He's going to make a wardrobe for my new flat.

Kitty

Ross

Ross talking about Kitty

First impressions We both arrived on bikes. I liked that – I couldn't help laughing. And I loved her big smile and crazy clothes. She was so 'bubbly'.

What did you talk about? Music, our jobs – why I left my city job as a journalist and moved here. Kitty wants to travel the world. I did that when I was 21. I'm happy now, living and working by the sea. She's 'veggie' – bad news, but ... she eats fish – surprising! We were in a great fish restaurant.

Any difficult moments? I think I said something that embarrassed her – she went very red. I don't know what it was.

Best thing about her? Her laugh! We both laughed a lot. I loved hearing about her job. She doesn't earn much, but money doesn't matter to Kitty. I'm the same.

Would your friends like her? Very much. My flatmate, Mark, would really love her.

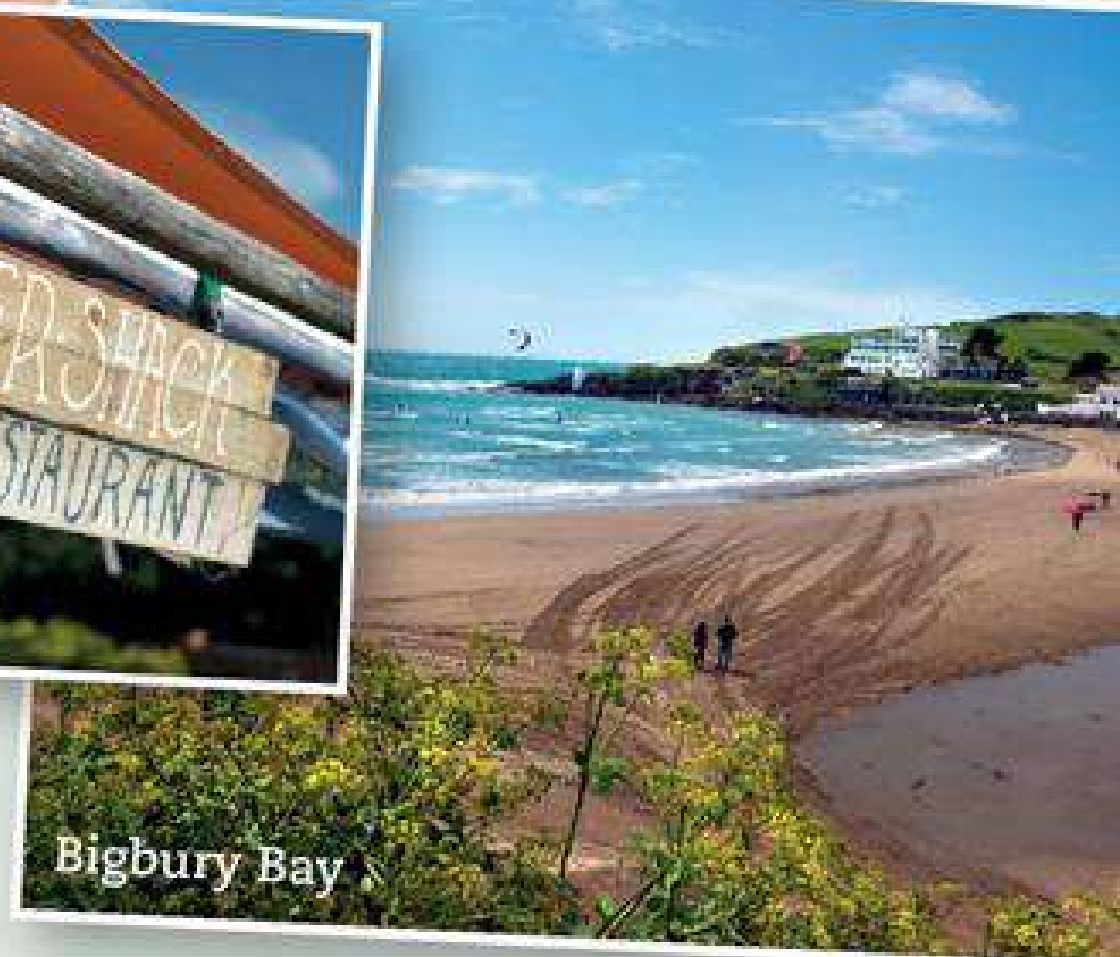

Describe her in three words. Funny, interesting, very pretty – sorry, that's four!

Did you go on somewhere? Well, we didn't go far, just down to the beach. I rescued Kitty when a wave knocked her over.

Did you kiss? Well, when I picked her up from the water, she said, 'Are you going to kiss me?' So I did.

Marks out of 10? She can't wink, but I like her. 9

Would you like to meet again? Definitely – but I'm not going to introduce her to Mark!

Grammar Present tenses and have/have got

Work in groups and discuss the questions.

- How many brothers and sisters have you got?
- Who do you get on with best in your family? Why?
- Do you spend a lot of your free time with members of your family? Why/Why not?
- Are there any twins in your family?

Being a twin

1 Look at the photos of Chloe and Leah and Liam and Dylan. Do you think they like being identical twins?

2 2.1 Read and listen to Chloe and Leah. Which girl wants to spend less time together? Why?

Chloe and Leah Taylor

Chloe and Leah are identical twins, aged 9. They have an older brother and sister, Luke, 11, and Jessica, 13.

Chloe We've got similar personalities, and we're very different from Luke and Jessica. We're both shy on our own, but we feel much braver when we're together, don't we, Leah?

Leah Yeah. I always want to be with Chloe. I never feel sad when I'm with her – well, not really sad. I feel so lucky that I've got a best friend who is always there. We usually wear the same clothes – I love it when we look identical! People say we're starting to look more different now, and I hate that.

Chloe I don't like it when I'm not with Leah, but I think it's a good idea to spend a bit more time apart now. We're getting older, and we can't live together when we're grown-ups!

Leah Why not?!

- 3 2.2 Read and listen to Liam and Dylan. Why don't they spend a lot of time together?

Liam and Dylan Clark

Liam and Dylan are 20. They don't have any other brothers or sisters.

Dylan I don't really like being a twin. People see identical twins as special, but they don't see what's different and special about you, on your own. I find I often try to be different from Liam. I sometimes want the same thing as him in a restaurant, but I never order it!

Liam I think we are different from most twins because we spend more time apart. We were in different classes at school, and now we're at different universities – Dylan's studying drama in Manchester, and I'm doing physics in Leeds. We don't feel so competitive now that we're living very different lives. But I still really want to beat him at sports!

Dylan I'm happy we're more independent now. I've got a lovely girlfriend in Manchester, and I don't talk to Liam about her – I think he's jealous!

GRAMMAR SPOT

- Which two present tenses are used in the texts? Find examples of both.
- Look at the sentences. Which refers to all time? Which refers to now?
They wear the same clothes. They live in the UK.
They're wearing jeans and T-shirts. Dylan's living in Manchester.
- Find examples of have and have got in the texts. Is have got more formal or informal? More spoken or written?

Grammar reference 2.1–2.4 p142–3

- 4 Work with a partner. Use the prompts to ask and answer questions about the twins.

- Why / Leah always want to be with Chloe?
- Do they always / the same clothes?
- Are they / to look different now?
- How / Leah feel about that?
- Why / Chloe think it's good to spend more time apart?

Liam and Dylan

- Why / not / Dylan like being a twin?
- What / Dylan never order in a restaurant?
- Where / Liam and Dylan living?
- What / they studying?
- Why / not / they feel so competitive now?
- Which twin / got / girlfriend?

- I often _____ people only _____ me as a twin.

- But you can't be competitive when you _____ completely different things.

PENGUIN SWIMS 5,000 MILES EVERY YEAR

TO VISIT THE MAN WHO SAVED HIS LIFE!

João says, 'I love the penguin like he's my own child, and I believe the penguin loves me.'

João Pereira de Souza, 71, lives on an island near Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. He is a retired bricklayer but still works as a part-time fisherman. One day, about five years ago, he ¹ found a tiny, sick penguin on the beach near his home. The penguin's feathers were covered in oil. João ² _____ sorry for the sick, little bird, and so he ³ _____ him back to his home. He cleaned him and ⁴ _____ him sardines, and he ⁵ _____ him the name Dindim. The penguin soon ⁶ _____ strong and healthy again.

After a week or two, João ⁷ _____ down to the seashore and ⁸ _____ to put Dindim back into the water. The penguin didn't want to go. He stayed with João, getting bigger and bigger – beautiful new feathers ⁹ _____ on his back. Eight months passed. João was very happy. Then suddenly, one day in February, Dindim disappeared. João was sad to lose him, but hoped that the bird just wanted to return to his penguin family. Four more months passed, when suddenly he ¹⁰ _____ a familiar 'honking' sound – Dindim was back.

João and Dindim

So it was, and so it is!

Every year since then, Dindim spends eight months with João and then disappears for four months. Where does he go? It is thought that he swims 2,500 miles to the coast of Argentina or Chile to start a penguin family and then swims 2,500 miles back to João. That's 5,000 miles a year to be with the man who saved his life.

THE MAN WITH THE GOLDEN GUN

James Bond got back to his hotel room at midnight. The windows were closed and the air-conditioning was on. Bond switched it off and opened the windows. His heart was still thumping in his chest. He breathed in the air with relief, then he had a shower and went to bed.

At 3.30 he was dreaming, not very peacefully, of three black-coated men with red eyes and angry white teeth. Suddenly, he woke up. He listened. There was a noise. It was coming from the window. Someone was moving behind the curtain. James Bond took his gun from under his pillow, got quietly out of bed, and crept slowly along the wall towards the window. Someone was breathing heavily behind the curtain. Bond pulled it back with one quick movement ... golden hair shone in the moonlight. 'Mary Goodnight!' Bond cursed. 'What the hell are you doing here?'

'Quick, James! Help me in!', Mary whispered urgently.

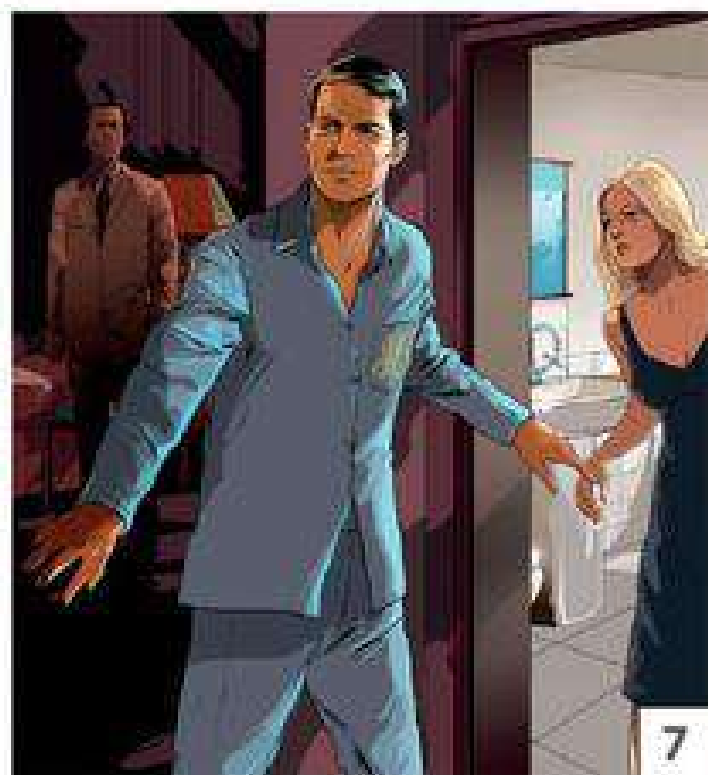

Bond put down his gun and tried to pull her through the open window. At the last moment, the window banged shut with a noise like a gunshot. Bond cursed again.

Mary Goodnight whispered, 'I'm terribly sorry, James!' 'Sh! Sh!' said Bond. He quickly led her across the room to the bathroom. First, he turned on the light then the shower. They sat down together on the side of the bath. Bond asked again, 'What the hell are you doing here? What's the matter?'

'James, I was so worried. A "Most Immediate" message came from HQ this evening. A top KGB man, using the name Hendriks, is staying in this hotel. He knows you're here. He's looking for you!'

'I know,' said Bond. 'Hendriks is here all right. So is a gunman called Scaramanga. Mary, did HQ say if they have a description of me?'

'No, they don't. They just have your name, Secret Agent James Bond.'

'Thanks, Mary. Now, I must get you out of here. Don't worry about me, just tell HQ that you gave me the message, OK?'

'OK, James.' Mary Goodnight stood up and looked into his eyes, 'Please take care, James.'

'Sure, sure.' Bond turned off the shower and opened the bathroom door. 'Now, come on!'

Suddenly, a voice came from the darkness of the bedroom: 'This is not your lucky day, Mr Bond. Come here both of you and put your hands up!'

Scaramanga walked to the door and turned on the lights. His golden gun was pointing directly at James Bond.

"I eat baby food at work!"

Abbie Johnson – supertaster

Abbie eats a lot of baby food at work, but she never has any for lunch. She's a baby food taster, so eating baby food is her job.

Abbie is a 'supertaster', someone with more taste buds on her tongue than most people. Babies and small children have three times as many taste buds as adults – most of us lose a lot of them as we grow older. That's why children often don't like things with very strong flavours, and it's usually adults who love olives and hot spicy curries. Abbie can taste things like babies do, so she helps her baby food company to make the food just right for them.

When Abbie's not at work, being a supertaster can be a problem. It's not easy for her to eat or drink things with very strong flavours. That includes alcohol, too!

3 Work with a partner. Read and complete the interview with Abbie with nouns from 2.

My grandfather lived until he was 101 years old. He was a shopkeeper. He had a fish and chip shop in an old village near a big, industrial town in the North of England. He had a son and a daughter. The daughter is my mother. The family lived above the shop.

In those days, fish and chips was the most popular dish in the whole country. My grandfather made the best fish and chips in the area. People came to the village by bus especially to get them.

Everybody loved my grandfather because he was such a happy and contented man. He worked hard, but once a week he closed the shop and went to have lunch (not fish and chips!) with friends in the local pub. He didn't retire until he was 78 years old. He said that the secret to a long life was a glass of whisky before going to bed and lots of fish and chips.

DELICIOUS ACCIDENTS!

Ice Lollies

In the UK, they're 'ice lollies' but the original US name for them is 'popsicles'. And the wonderful truth is that this children's treat was actually invented by a child!

It was a cold winter's afternoon in 1905. Eleven-year-old Frank Epperson was playing with friends on the front porch of his house in San Francisco, and made drinks for them by mixing flavoured powder with water. It got really cold, so the boys went inside. Frank left a glass of the drink outside, with the mixing stick standing in it.

It was a bitterly cold night. In the morning, when Frank went out, he found the drink frozen in the glass, with the stick still inside it. He ran hot water over the glass, and pulled the frozen drink out with the stick. It looked good,

Crisps

They're called 'crisps' in the UK and 'potato chips' in the US, and you can find them everywhere. But there weren't any crisps around in 1853 when George Crum worked as a chef in Saratoga Springs, New York State. 'French-fried potatoes' were popular in restaurants, but they weren't like today's French fries. They were circles of potato, sliced and fried in oil, and you ate them with a fork.

One day, a customer in George's restaurant thought his French-fried potatoes were sliced too thickly, and sent them back to the kitchen. George made some nice thin ones, but the customer sent those back too and asked for even thinner ones. George decided to teach the fussy customer a lesson. He cut some very thin slices of potato, which became hard and crisp when he fried them – impossible to eat with a fork. He waited for an angry complaint, but ... the customer loved them! He ordered more, and other

Chocolate Chip Cookies

What Americans call 'cookies' are usually called 'biscuits' in the UK, but even the British say 'chocolate chip cookie'. It's the most famous cookie, and it was first made by accident.

In the 1930s, Mary Wakefield ran a hotel called 'The Toll House Inn' in Massachusetts, US. She was a great cook, and her guests loved her cookies. One day, she was making chocolate cookies when she discovered she didn't have any baking chocolate. She had some ordinary Nestlé's chocolate, so she used that instead. She broke it into small pieces, and mixed it into the cookie dough as usual – the chocolate always melted in the oven to produce dark brown cookies. But the Nestlé's chocolate didn't melt enough – there were pieces of it in the cookies when they came out of the oven.

SOME OF THE MOST POPULAR FOODS WE EAT ARE ONLY WITH US BECAUSE OF A HAPPY ACCIDENT. SO WHAT'S THE UNEXPECTED STORY BEHIND THE CREATION OF ICE LOLLIES, CRISPS, AND CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES?

so he licked it with his tongue ... it was good! He made more for his friends, and they liked them too. Frank called them 'Eppsicles' but it wasn't until 17 years later, when Frank was making them for his own children, that he wondered if he could sell them. His children called them 'Popsicles', and when he began selling them in a nearby park, they were hugely popular. They were soon selling in their thousands. Two years later, in 1924, Frank got a patent for his Popsicles®.

He later sold the patent because he needed the money. That was a mistake – the Popsicle company now sells two billion ice lollies a year in the US.

Frank Epperson

4 Work with someone from the other two groups and compare your answers to the questions. Which of the stories is your favourite?

5 Complete the sentences with a/an, the, no article, some or any.

1 Frank left a drink outside with _____ stick in it. In _____ morning, _____ drink was frozen with _____ stick in the middle of it. It was _____ ice lolly!

2 A customer in _____ George's restaurant ordered _____ French fries. He sent _____ fries back and asked for _____ thinner ones.

3 Mary wanted to make _____ chocolate cookies, but she didn't have _____ baking chocolate. _____ chocolate she used didn't melt, and _____ result was _____ chocolate chip cookies.

customers also asked for them. George called them 'Saratoga Chips', and when he opened his own restaurant a few years later, one of the main attractions was a bowl of crisps on every table.

George never got a patent for his potato crisps – but others saw the opportunity to make a lot of money. In 1926, someone had the idea of putting crisps into wax paper bags, and gave us the 'bag of crisps'. The first big successful brand of crisps was Lays, started by Hermann Lay in Nashville in 1932. Today, Lays sells over 1.5 billion dollars worth of crisps every year in the US.

George Crum

Mary tried one of the cookies and ... it was delicious! Her guests agreed, and Mary's 'Toll House Crunch Cookies' became a popular treat. After Mary published the recipe in a local newspaper, Nestlé's noticed something strange – there was a huge increase in sales of their chocolate bars, but only in Massachusetts! They discovered that Mary's recipe was the reason, and asked if they could put it on all their chocolate bars. Mary agreed and received a lifetime's supply of chocolate in return! Nestlé's later made bags of chocolate chips for people to bake with, and so the chocolate chip cookie became a favourite in America (3.5 billion are sold there every year), and around the world.

Style and synonyms

Hi Joshua!

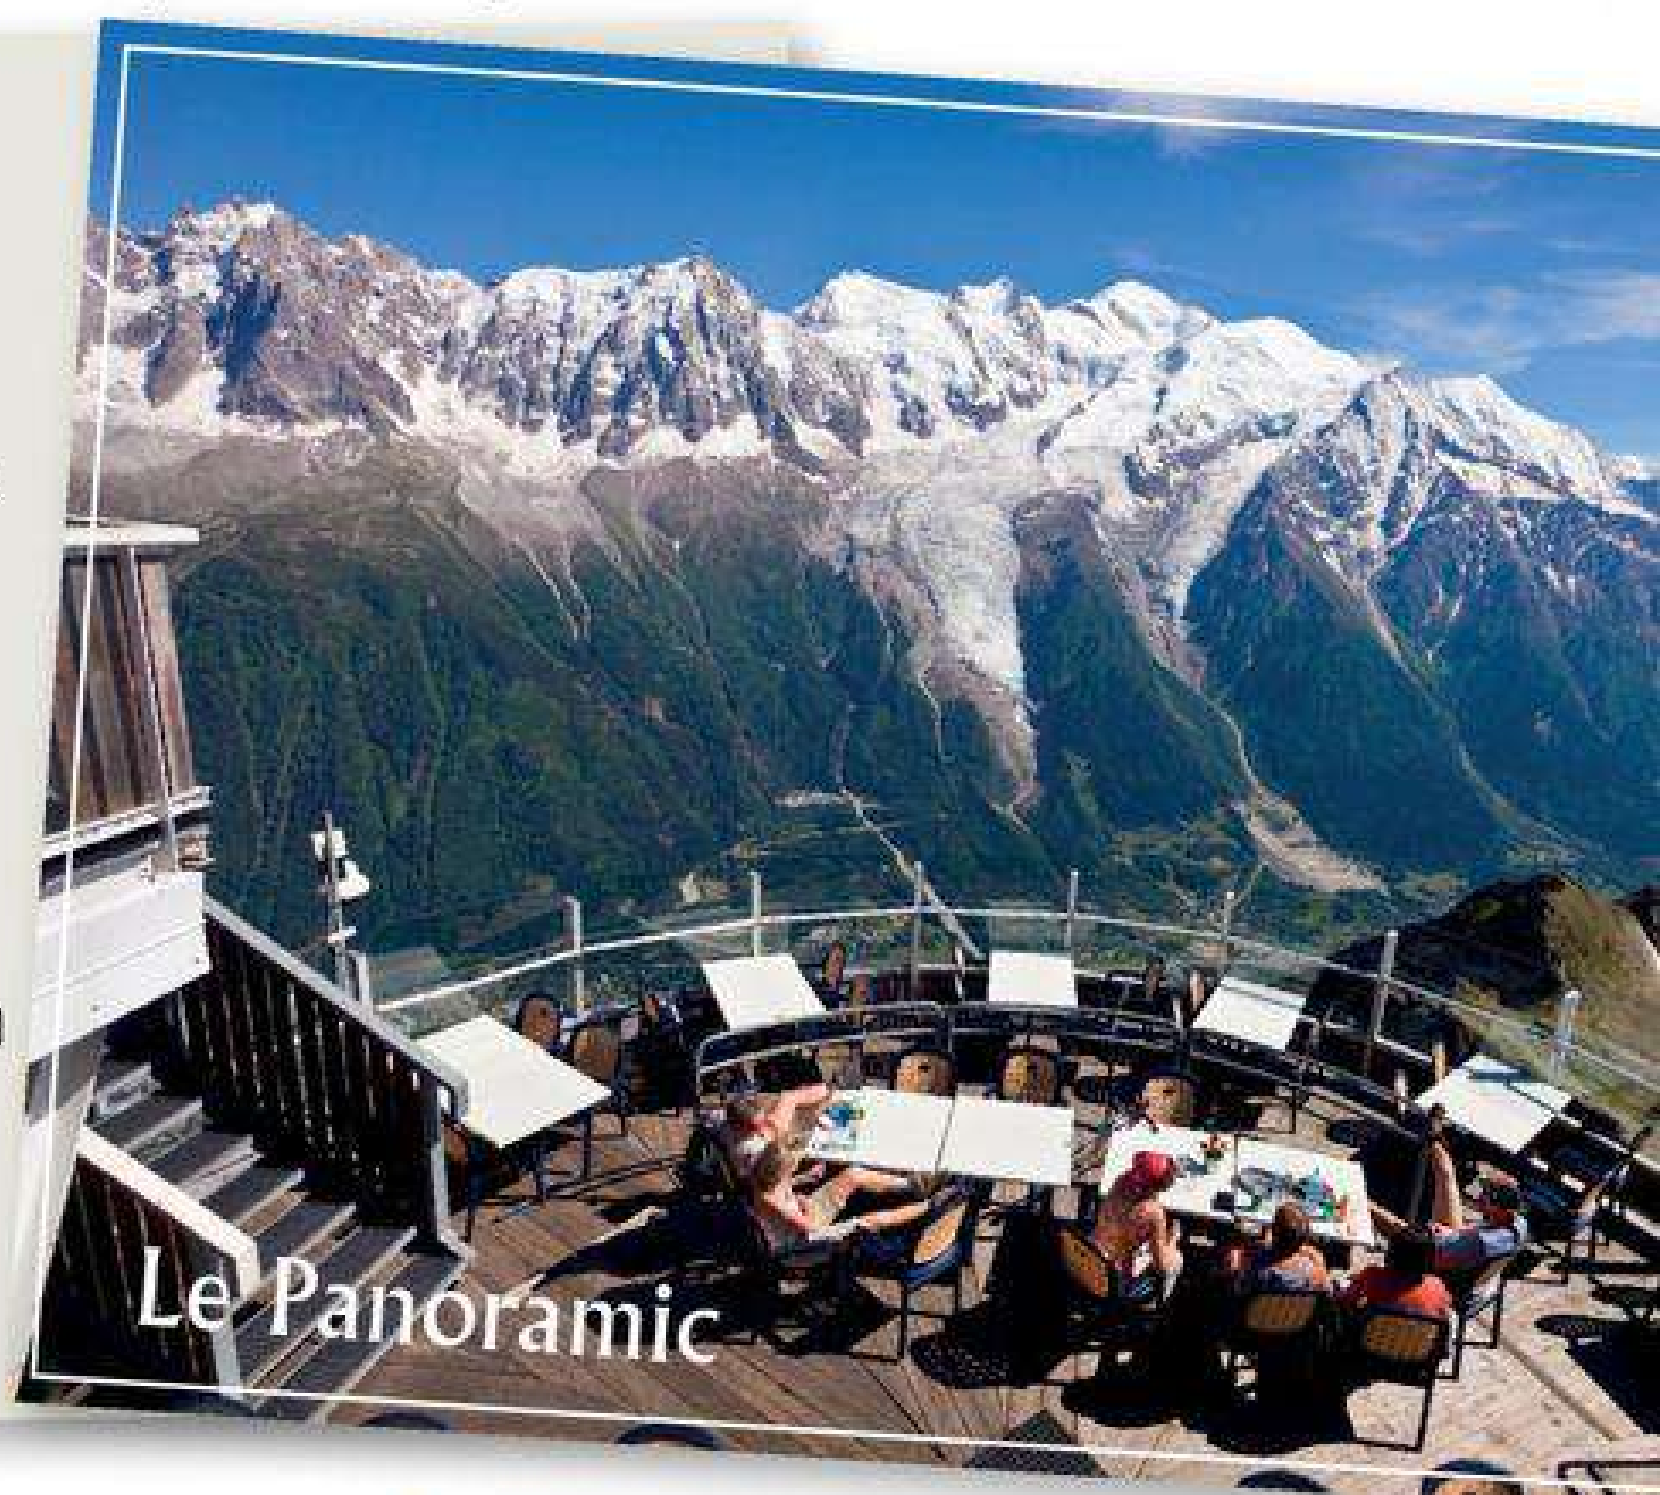

Greetings from France! We're having a nice time in the Alps, near Mont Blanc. We're not skiing, obviously, we're hiking. The mountains are nice at this time of year. There are lots of nice wild flowers.

Hope you enjoy getting a postcard! We had lunch in this nice restaurant today, and we wanted to send this postcard because the picture on it is so nice. The weather is nice, so the view really was nice! The food was really nice too – Lucas had steak and said the French fries were nice – worth climbing a mountain for! My 'Grandmother's roast chicken' was nice, but the chocolate 'Dôme' with spiced caramel sauce was truly nice! Sorry – I'm obviously hungry again after an afternoon hiking!

See you soon,

Love,

Ruby and Lucas

Adam Mudd

FROM schoolboy TO cyber hacker!

He was just 16 when, working alone in his bedroom at home, Adam Mudd created a computer program - a virus called Titanium Stresser. At 18, he started selling the program to cyber criminals worldwide and earned nearly £400,000. He caused chaos - websites crashed 'from Greenland to New Zealand, from Russia to Chile'. All in all, because of Mudd there were 1.7 million attacks on more than 650,000 victims. These included users of Xbox Live, Minecraft, Runescape, TeamSpeak and Microsoft.

What went wrong?

Mudd comes from a comfortable home in the pretty village of Kings Langley, Hertfordshire, England. This is where he was living with his parents when he created the software. As well as selling the virus, he carried out nearly 600 attacks with it himself, with the user name themuddfamily. Many of these attacks were on West Herts College, where he was a student. One attack was so large that it not only crashed the network in his college, it also hit 70 other schools and colleges, including Cambridge University. Mudd explained these attacks by saying he was bullied at college and nobody helped him.

When finally arrested, aged 19, Mudd was working on his computer in his bedroom. At first, he denied doing anything wrong. Then he said the money was not important to him - it was all about status, and he wanted to make friends in the gaming community online. Mudd found it difficult to make friends outside his family. His parents were in court to support their son. However, the judge at his trial refused to free him - he said that he must be a lesson to others. Mudd will probably spend the next two years in prison.

Mudd is one of many teenage hackers.

The average age of a hacker is just 17, and teenagers are behind some of the world's most notorious cyber attacks. Often the best teenage hackers get really good IT jobs in the end.

Joel Kioko

FROM Kenyan slum TO the world stage!

Sixteen-year-old Joel Kioko comes from Kenya, East Africa. He was born in Kuwinda, a slum in the capital, Nairobi. He says, 'It's dirty, obviously, but it's a good place. It's home.' But Joel is very different from the other teenagers in Kawinda - he's going to leave home because he's won a dance scholarship. He is going to train to be a ballet dancer at the English National Ballet School in London.

How did this happen?

Amazingly, Joel took up dancing only three years ago. He went with a female cousin to her ballet class. 'I thought, what is this strange dance? It's not like Kenyan dancing.' But then when he saw the men dancing, and they were leaping and jumping, he thought 'I knew this is what I wanted to do with my life.'

Luck was on his side. An American dance teacher, Cooper Rust, from the School of American Ballet in New York, saw him dance. She comes to Kenya every year to teach ballet classes to poor children, and when she saw Joel she couldn't believe how beautifully he moved, and with no training at all. She invited him to train with her, and he began working in her studio three or four times a week. He was shy at first, but Rust liked the way he learnt so quickly and worked so hard. He even started teaching children just a few years younger than himself. That was three years ago, and now Joel is moving to London.

Joel says his dream is to become a principal dancer, but he'd also like to run a dance studio in Nairobi, 'and just take kids from the street, like they found me.' He wants to show them that dance can be a way to a better future. He would also like to move his family out of Kuwinda. There was a terrible fire there last year - 2,000 people lost their homes, including his family.

Roleplay

Work with a partner. Think of questions to ask either Joel or Adam in an interview. Act out the interview to the class. Begin like this.

Nice to meet you Joel/Adam. I'd like to ask you some questions, is that OK?

Yes, of course.

So, can you tell me a bit about when you were a child?

What do you think?

Work in small groups and discuss these questions.

- Which boy do you think will be most successful in the future? Why?
- Imagine an unsuccessful future for both boys.
Perhaps Joel will feel homesick, and he'll decide to ...
Perhaps Adam will ...
- Imagine a successful future.
Joel will be ...

I don't think ...

'My dreams for the future ...'

1 Think about your future. How do you see your life ... ?

- next year
- in five years' time
- in ten years' time
- when you're 40 or 50

Write some notes about your hopes and ambitions at each of these times. Tell the class.

2  5.17 Read and listen to Susannah talking about her future. What are her definite plans? What is she not sure about? What are her hopes, ambitions, and dreams?

3 Read Susannah's talk again carefully. There are six paragraphs. In each one underline any words or phrases that would be useful when you write a talk about your future. Compare with your partner.

4 Rewrite the first paragraph about you. Read it aloud to your partner.

5 Write a talk about your future plans and dreams. Mark pauses and words you want to stress. Practise reading it aloud. Give your talk to the class. Answer any questions.

MY DREAMS FOR THE FUTURE

Hello everyone. My name's Susannah - Susie for short. I'm 20 years old. At the moment, I'm in my second year at art school, and I often dream about my future. I have big plans, and I'd like to tell you a bit about them.

My most immediate plans are holiday plans. I'm going to visit my brother who's working in Australia. My mother and I are going to spend Christmas with him in the summer sun. I'm very excited about that.

When I return I need to make a final decision about which course to study next year. I'm still not sure - I'm thinking of doing either fashion design or landscape design. It's difficult because I'm interested in both clothes and gardens. If I choose landscape, I'd like to work with my friend Jasper. He's brilliant with gardens, and we've already worked on two together. It was great fun, and we get on really well.

In five or ten years' time, I would like to have my own business and work for myself like my father. He has his own building business. Perhaps I'll do a business course after I finish art school.

Of course, one day I hope to marry and have children. Ideally before I'm 30, but I can't plan when I'll meet the right person, and I haven't got a boyfriend at the moment.

In my dreams, I see myself at 40 running a successful gardening company with about 20 employees. I'll design beautiful gardens for beautiful people. I'll have a beautiful house, two beautiful children, and of course a husband who's as successful as I am. Who knows ... it could even be Jasper!

THE PAST IN THE PRESENT

BREAKING NEWS!

1 THE WEST HAS SENT MORE SOLDIERS TO IRAQ.

Enemy fighters there have captured and executed the leader of the Western army.

2 MORE REFUGEES HAVE TRIED TO ENTER THE COUNTRY, AFTER THE GOVERNMENT ANNOUNCED THAT NO MORE WILL BE ALLOWED IN.

One leader has already built a wall to try and keep foreigners out.

3 THERE HAVE BEEN MORE PROTESTS AGAINST HIGH GOVERNMENT TAXES.

Protestors say that ordinary people are paying too much tax because the rich have found ways to avoid paying theirs.

SAME OLD PROBLEMS

Surprisingly, these are not recent news stories – they're ancient history! This was all happening 2,000 years ago!

- The 'West' was the Roman Empire and 'Iraq' was Mesopotamia.
- The refugees were the Goths, escaping the Huns who were invading their land. The wall was Hadrian's Wall, in the North of England, built to stop the early Scots coming into Roman Britain.
- Taxes were high to pay for Roman wars and unemployment, but rich people knew how to move their money to places where the government couldn't tax it.

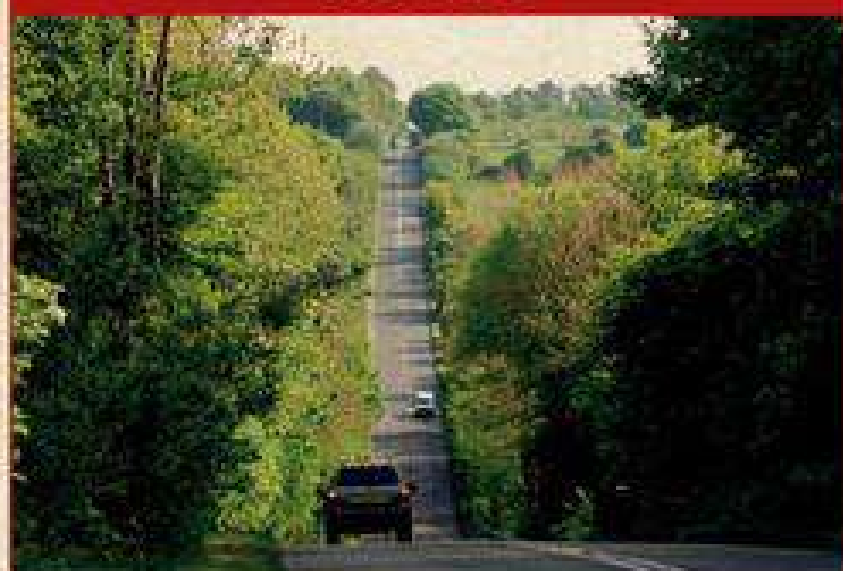

So, perhaps it's true that history repeats itself!

THE ROMANS IN BRITAIN

However, many of the good things in our lives are also reminders of our ancient past. People often don't realize this, because they've forgotten how much of their culture has come from foreign peoples. This is certainly true in Britain, where the Romans ruled for nearly 400 years.

SO WHAT GOOD HAVE THE ROMANS DONE FOR US?

ROADS

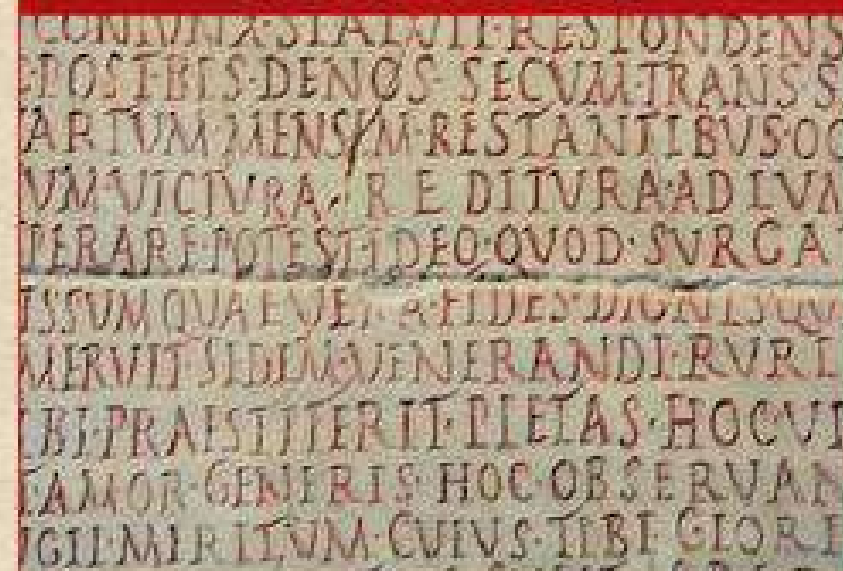

Romans built the first super highways for their armies to move along quickly. It's easy to see which modern British roads have followed the 9,600 km of old Roman roads. They are long, wide, and incredibly straight!

GLOBAL CURRENCY

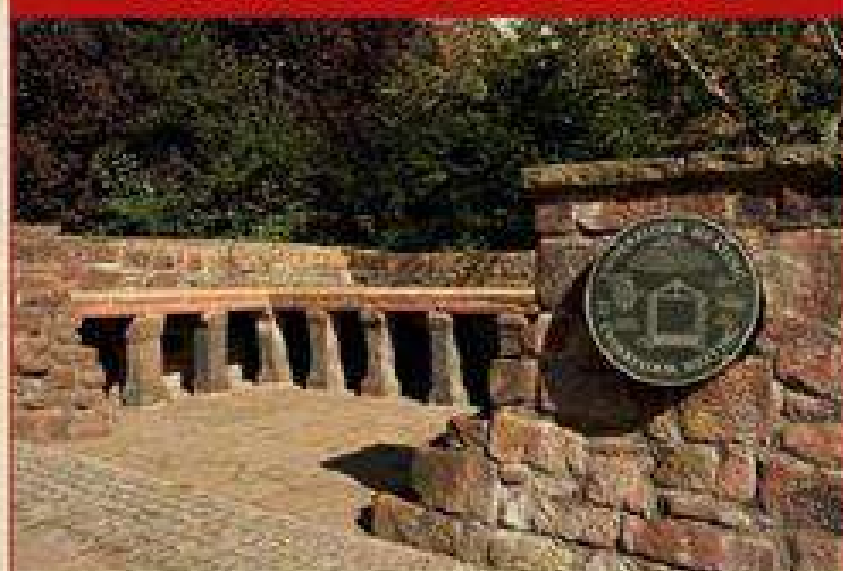

The British said no to the Euro in 1992, but they have had a global currency before. People could spend Roman coins all over Europe, and in Turkey and North Africa, too!

NEWSPAPERS

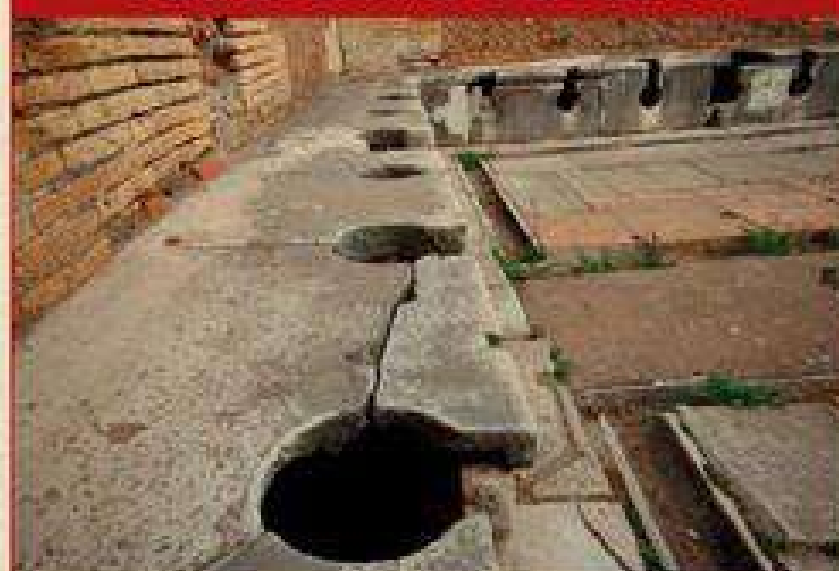

The first newspaper was created in 53 BC, on the orders of Julius Caesar. It was actually a 'newsstone', and people could read copies of it in public places.

CENTRAL HEATING

The Romans didn't enjoy British winters – a soldier's letter sent home from Hadrian's Wall asked for more socks and underpants to keep the cold out! However, life inside their villas was lovely and warm, and we've taken the idea of underfloor central heating from them!

FLUSHING TOILETS

Roman aqueducts brought fresh water into towns and cities. This was completely new in Britain. There was the amazing luxury of public baths, even hot ones in the city of Bath. And we've certainly learnt the importance of another use for this water system – to flush away the sewage from toilets.

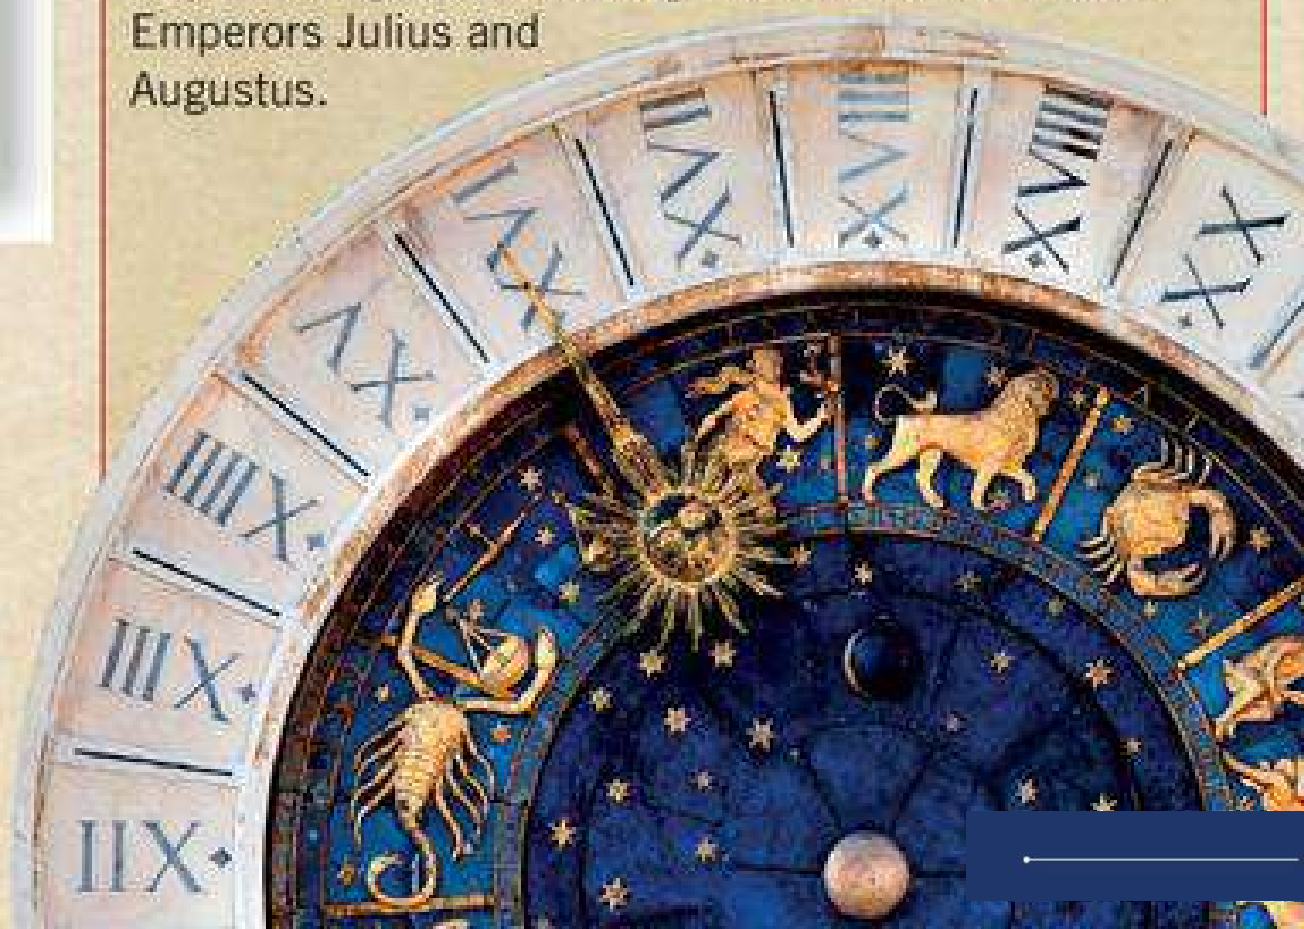

FAST FOOD

The Romans created large towns, and the soldiers passing through them wanted quick and easy food to eat on the move. The British began selling food from street stalls, using new foods and recipes the Romans brought with them. The minced meat 'patties' with bread and lettuce sound very like our modern hamburgers!

CALENDARS

We've continued to use the Roman year, with 365 days and a leap year every four years. The months of July and August are a living reminder of the Roman Emperors Julius and Augustus.

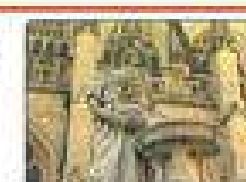

What do you think?

- Why don't we learn from the mistakes of history?
- What could we do to help us stop repeating history's problems?
- What periods of history would you like to see repeated?

Project

What has your country taken from other cultures in the past? Research some examples and prepare a talk on one of them to give to the class.

Writing A biography

Ordering paragraphs

- 1 What do you know about Princess Diana's and Prince Harry's charity work?
- 2 Read the seven paragraphs about Princess Diana. Work with a partner to put them in the correct order. What helped you to decide the order?
- 3 How many of Diana's charitable activities did you learn about from this text? What were they?

THE PEOPLE'S PRINCESS

☐ After her divorce from Prince Charles in 1996, Diana appeared less often in public and did less charity work. However, she continued to be a patron of some charities, including Centrepoin, for homeless people. She visited the charity's shelters regularly up until she died.

☐ It was after her death that Diana became known as 'the People's Princess'. Many people wanted to give money to the charities which she supported, and the Princess Diana Memorial Fund managed the £34 million that was collected.

☐ Diana did the same for leprosy. The fear of catching it from sufferers is centuries old, and when Diana visited a leprosy hospital in Indonesia, her advisers suggested she shouldn't touch them. Diana sat on their beds and held their hands, showing that you can't catch leprosy through physical contact.

1 When Diana Spencer married Prince Charles and became Princess Diana, she also became one of the biggest celebrities of the 80s and 90s. She wasn't a typical British royal, however. She had an informal style and a special ability to connect with ordinary people.

☐ In the same year as her death, 1997, she visited Angola to bring attention to the problem of landmines. The photograph of her walking through a recently cleared minefield is as famous as the one with the AIDS victim.

☐ Two other hospitals that Diana often visited were the Great Ormond Street Hospital for Children and The Royal Marsden. Both are in London and have many child cancer patients. Diana spent many hours with them, saying, 'Some of them will live and some will die, but they all need to be loved while they are here.'

☐ In the 1980s, people lived in fear of the newly discovered AIDS virus, and were afraid of contact with people suffering from it. In 1987, Diana opened Britain's first AIDS hospital ward. The photograph of her shaking hands with AIDS patients, without wearing gloves, completely changed people's ideas about the illness.

- 4 Read the notes about Prince Harry. What are the similarities with Diana's life?
- 5 Use the notes to write Harry's biography, in five paragraphs. Decide which notes go in each paragraph.

My favourite

Tiger in a Tropical Storm (Surprised!) by Henri Rousseau

A This picture is in my bedroom, on the wall opposite my bed. I bought it from the National Gallery in London, where you can see the original painting.

I adore the colours in it – there are beautiful light and dark greens, and some lovely rich, rich reds. The leaves and plants have great shapes too. You can see that the wind is blowing very hard – I feel like I can almost hear it, and the sound of the raindrops falling on the leaves. It really gives you the feeling of what it's like to be in a storm in the jungle.

And of course, I love the tiger! You almost don't notice him at first – he's hiding among the plants. There's just been a bolt of lightning, so there's probably thunder too, and the tiger is absolutely terrified! His face is wonderful – he looks nearly as frightened as my cat when there's a big storm!

I like having this picture in my bedroom. My life is hard at the moment, and I often wake up in the middle of the night and worry about things. I tell myself I'm stupid, and that I shouldn't be so afraid of life. But sometimes it's difficult to go back to sleep again and I put the light on, and I see the tiger. And then I think 'Well, if even a big fierce tiger is scared sometimes, it's OK for me to feel like that too!'

Lucy Davidson

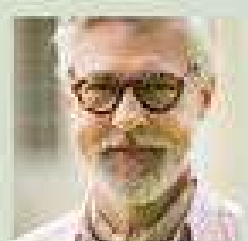

Kliffküste by Mat Hennek

B This photograph is on the wall above the fireplace in my living room. I bought it in an art gallery in Berlin. I think it's the most amazing photo I've ever seen. It's hard to believe it's a photograph – it looks like a painting.

It's of a wood in northern Germany. I love the light in it. It seems like an early morning in spring – the sunlight is coming in from the left, making long shadows. It's very bright in the left of the picture – it looks beautiful, and I'd like to go for a walk in that part of the wood. On the right, the light doesn't reach into the back of the wood – it's much darker and more mysterious. It makes me think of fairy tales, like Hansel and Gretel, where children get lost in the woods. I don't want to go for a walk in that part of the wood – I start to feel scared just looking at it!

I really like the shapes of the trees – they're fascinating. They're very straight and simple on the right, and then the shapes get much more interesting as you go to the left. The ones at the edge of the picture are crazy!

I look at this photo every day, but I never get tired of it. I sometimes stand in front of it and notice what mood I'm in. Do I feel like I'm in the bright part of the wood, or in the darker part, or somewhere in between?

Greg Hayman

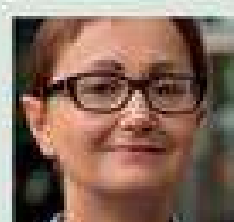

Girls under trees by August Macke

C A friend gave me this picture as a present. I have it in my kitchen, and it's also the screen saver on my computer. It's the colours in it that I enjoy the most – the mix of bright blues, reds, greens, and yellows, with the white in between them. It's so gorgeous! And I like the fact that you can't see the faces of the people, and things aren't very clear. It's like a photo that's a bit out of focus, but in a way that makes it more beautiful.

The girls are wearing their best clothes, and enjoying being outside on a bright and sunny summer's day. I imagine it's a Sunday afternoon, I don't know why. And it's nice that they're all girls – it seems like they're having a good time without any boys around! It's so full of life and happiness, and it makes me feel good when I look at it.

But I can also feel sad sometimes when I see it, because of what I've learnt about the painter. August Macke was one of the most talented German artists of the early 20th century. He was young, and he was experimenting with new styles of painting. He painted this in 1914, not long before going to fight in the First World War, where he died in September of that year, aged 27. That's awful, and this painting shows better than anything what a terrible waste of life war is.

Problems

1 Too busy to exercise!

My wife says I'm putting on weight and I should do more exercise (She's super fit – she's just done the Marathon!), but I just don't have the time. I have a very stressful job, and I have to travel a lot. How can I possibly find time to have a fitness routine? What should I do? James

2 I get bored doing exercises!

I do exercise – I understand how important it is, but I get so bored. I tried swimming, but just going up and down a pool is so boring! I tried going to the gym – but walking on the spot so depressing! I bought an exercise DVD, but I only used it once. What should I do? Cheryl

3 I sprained my ankle badly

I'm a keen 'keep-fitter', but this morning when I was out running I fell and hurt my ankle. I think it's just a sprain, but quite a bad one. I want some advice about what kind of exercises I should do while I'm injured. I can't even walk very well at the moment. Adam 4 No time for fun!

I'm 15, and I do gymnastics. I have to train 30 hours a week because my coach wants me to try for the next Olympics. I love gymnastics, but I have no time for anything else in my life. My school friends tell me that I'm missing all the fun. What should I do? Millie

Advice from Dr Drew

a Dear _____

Before you do any more exercise you must see a doctor! You must find out how serious your injury is. If it's not too bad, then you should do gentle exercises at first, perhaps some exercises in water, a little swimming perhaps, or join a yoga class.

b Dear _____

The fact is, that to get to the top in sport you have to train very hard and keep very fit. This could be the chance of a lifetime. I don't think you should talk to just your friends. You must talk to someone else about how you feel, and this should be your parents or your coach.

c Dear _____

You should make exercise a part of your daily life – you shouldn't sit at your desk all day. Perhaps there is a gym near where you work – keep some sports clothes at work and go there for just 15 minutes in your lunch break when you can. You don't have to exercise for long periods, just ten minutes every now and then helps.

d Dear _____

Oh dear! I think you should try a different kind of exercise. I don't think you should exercise alone. It can help if you do it with other people – what about a sport, such as tennis, or perhaps dancing? There are all kinds of dance classes – you're sure to find one you like.

Practice Giving advice

1 Give advice to people with these problems.

- I'm hopeless at all sports.

You shouldn't worry about it. Lots of people aren't sporty, but you should make some exercise part of your daily routine – walking more quickly can help.

- I can't sleep at night.
- I don't like my brother's new girlfriend.
- I've got an important exam tomorrow, and I'm really nervous.
- A boy in my class is bullying me.
- I fell off my bike and banged my head – now I've got a bad headache.
- My computer's behaving very strangely.
- My car's making a funny noise.

8.6 Listen and compare your answers.

What do you think?

2 Work with a partner. Make sentences from the chart to express your opinion. Do you agree with each other?

2 8.7 Listen to the answers. Whose ideas were correct? Do you agree with all the advice? If not, why not?

THE TOUGH WORLD OF TWO HOLLYWOOD STUNTWOMEN

FACT FILE AMANDA FOSTER

From: Essex, England

Years in the business: 25

Family: three children (single mum)

Credits include:

James Bond 007: Die Another Day (Halle Berry)

A Knight in Camelot (Whoopi Goldberg)

World War Z (with Brad Pitt)

The Harry Potter series

Ninja Assassin (Naomie Harris)

How did she become a stuntwoman?

Amanda had a difficult childhood, but she was always sporty. For a while she worked as a PE teacher and a film extra. Then, in her late 20s, while working as an extra on the film Patriot Games with Harrison Ford, she heard someone say that there were no British black stunt actresses. She thought, 'Great! I'll be the first!'

Which celebrities has she worked with?

She has doubled for some of the world's greatest stars. Her first major role was 20 years ago, doubling for Whoopi Goldberg in A Knight in Camelot. 'I was sword-fighting, jumping over tables,' she remembers. 'It was good fun.' Then she worked with Halle Berry in the Bond film Die Another Day – one of her favourites. She won an award for it. More recently she did The Edge of Tomorrow with Tom Cruise and World War Z with Brad Pitt. She loved that – she had to jump on top of Brad and bite his face!

How do stunt doubles prepare for a film?

Obviously, most stunts are dangerous one way or another, so they have to do a lot of preparation – both mental and physical – but they also have to learn special skills. Amanda's skills include: gymnastics, trampolining, motorcycle racing and martial arts. Also, you have to develop a good relationship with the star. Amanda says: 'I watch to see how they move. The viewer has to believe that you are the star.'

Has she been injured much?

'Many times! We don't talk about that stuff,' says Amanda. 'It's a seriously risky job to do.' She doesn't like to talk about her worst injury. 'All I can say is that as long as I leave a day's work in my own car, and I don't have to leave in an ambulance, it's been a good day!'

FINAL WORD

Amanda is doing very well for someone who spent their childhood in children's homes and had three children by the age of 21. They are grown up now and very proud of their mother.

She says about the job, 'I'll keep going until my body won't allow me to.'

Being a stunt double is a risky job for both men and women. Jumping through glass, crashing into cars, and falling down stairs is no easy day's work, but for stuntwomen it is even more dangerous – they often have to do these stunts wearing high heels and a mini skirt. Men and women usually earn the same money, but in New Zealand stuntwomen earn more than stuntmen – they recognize that women can't wear as much protective clothing.

FACT FILE DAYNA GRANT

From: Auckland, New Zealand

Years in the business: 22

Family: Husband, Dane Grant (stuntman)
One son

Credits include:

Mad Max: Fury Road (Charlize Theron)

The Chronicles of Narnia (Tilda Swinton)

Xena: Warrior Princess (Lucy Lawless)

How did she become a stuntwoman?

Dayna grew up in New Zealand and was always a keen gymnast and horse rider. She was 18 when two friends, who were working as stuntmen, asked her to audition to be a stuntwoman on a TV show called, Xena: Warrior Princess. She didn't know anything about the profession and didn't expect to get the job. But they liked her, and she started the next day!

Which celebrities has she worked with?

She has doubled for many famous stars, including Charlize Theron, Gwyneth Paltrow, and Tilda Swinton. For the action film Mad Max: Fury Road, as Theron's double, she had to shave her head and spend nine months in the Namibian desert. 'I lived and breathed that film,' she says. She had to run alongside a moving truck and fall under its wheels – all in a day's work. She met her stuntman husband, Dane, on that film.

How do stunt doubles prepare for a film?

Obviously, they have to keep fit. They often train in martial arts, such as judo and karate, but as Dayna says, you have to learn different skills for different films. For the adventure film Hercules, she had to learn archery and chariot driving! Another part of the preparation for the stunt double is to train the actor. Sometimes they work together 12 hours a day. The preparation for a role can be difficult if there's not a lot of time, and they have to 'crash' diet!

Has she been injured much?

Dayna did once have a very serious accident – this was because of the shoes she was wearing: 'They were very slippery, feminine shoes.' She slipped and her head fell on a dagger. 'I was a bit of a mess,' she says bravely.

FINAL WORD

Dayna knows it's an unusual career, but she loves it. Her son came back from school one day and said: 'I've just realized you're not a normal mum. Most mums drink tea and sit on the couch. You jump off buildings and set yourself on fire!'

- 5 Work in two groups. Answer the questions about your stuntwoman.

 - 8 What does her family think of her job?

Listening – a stuntman's story

- 7 8.8 Listen to stuntman Andy Lambert talking to his friend, Justin, about being a stuntman. What are his answers to the questions in the articles?

What do you think?

- Do all actors use stunt doubles for dangerous actions?
- Stunt doubles' acting skills are usually not noticed. Some of them are annoyed that the stars take the credit for their stunts. What do you think about this?
- Stunt doubles are paid more for the most dangerous stunts, but they aren't paid as much as the stars. Is this fair?

Watch a video and find out more about the exciting and dangerous life of an underwater photographer.

The Story of Mula and the Miserable Man

A wise old man called Mula was walking along the road through the woods, when he saw a man walking towards him.

The man was carrying a dirty, old sack. He looked very unhappy, and when Mula asked him why, the man told him his story.

He was all alone, (1...) and he was also poor and homeless (2...).

'Everything I own is in this old sack', he said. 'My life is miserable.' And he walked off.

(3...) Mula ran past him, took his sack, and ran into the woods. The man was afraid to follow (4...).

'Now my life is even more miserable!' he said. And he sat down and cried.

Meanwhile, further down the road, Mula came out of the woods and put the man's sack in the middle of the road. Finally, (5...) the man set off again, walking slowly and sadly. Suddenly, he saw his sack. 'My sack!' he shouted. He picked it up - everything was still inside it! He was overjoyed, and walked happily on towards the city, singing as he went.

'Well', said Mula. 'That's one way to make someone happy.'

The Storyteller

It was a hot afternoon, and the hour-long train journey had only just begun. There were five people in the railway carriage – two young girls and their brother, sitting with their aunt, and a young man, who was sitting alone in the corner. The young man had already begun to think he'd chosen the wrong carriage to sit in.

The children were hot, tired, and bored, and behaving badly. The youngest girl was singing the first line of a song, over and over again. Everything the aunt said began with 'Don't!' and everything the children said began with 'Why?'

'Don't put your feet on the seat, Cyril!'

'Why not?'

'Because you'll make it dirty. And don't stare at the man. Oh, look at those sheep in that field!'

Nearly every field the train had travelled past had had sheep in it, so the aunt's surprise was difficult to explain.

'Why is that man taking the sheep into the other field?' asked the younger girl.

'Perhaps there's more grass in that field,' replied the aunt.

'But there's lots of grass in both fields.'

'Well, perhaps the grass is better in the other field.'

'Why is it better?' came the immediate question from Cyril.

The young man was looking annoyed. 'I imagine he doesn't like children,' the aunt thought.

'Come and sit over here, all of you, and I'll tell you a story', she said.

The children did not look at all excited by the aunt's offer. They'd obviously heard her stories before, and this one was very boring indeed. It was about a beautiful young girl who worked very hard and behaved perfectly. Everyone in the village loved her. One day she fell into a lake, and of course, everybody ran to save her immediately.

'So they saved her because she was so good?' asked the bigger girl.

'Exactly so,' said the aunt.

'But that's silly', said the girl. 'When people are in danger, you always try to save them – you don't ask whether they're good or not.'

'Well, perhaps they ran a little faster to save her because she was so good,' the aunt replied.

'Oh, how stupid!' said the girl.

'It's definitely the most stupid story I've ever heard,' said Cyril.

'It was so stupid I didn't even listen to it,' the younger girl said, and began singing the first line of her song again.

'You're not a great success as a storyteller,' said the young man suddenly from the corner.

'Well, it's not easy to tell stories that young people can understand and enjoy,' the aunt replied, sounding stressed.

'I don't agree,' said the young man.

'Well, perhaps you would like to tell them a story then?' she suggested.

'OK,' said the young man. And he began.

- 6 What could the wolf hear when she was shaking with fear?

7 9.12 Read and listen to the last part of the story.

'What a terrible story to tell young children!' the aunt complained.

'No, it's not! It's the most beautiful story I've ever heard!' said the smaller girl.

'It's the only beautiful story I've ever heard!' said Cyril.

'Well, at least I did manage to keep them quiet for a while,' said the young man as he got up to leave the train. 'Goodbye!'

Do you think the man's story was a good one to tell children? What was definitely good about it in this situation?

The story of Frankenstein is famous all over the world. It was written in 1818 by Mary Shelley, and was immediately a big success. It's a horror story which some people also see as the first science-fiction novel. And although it's a very well-known story, most people have the wrong idea about who Frankenstein is. They think it's the name of the monster in the story, but in fact it's the name of the scientist who created it.

The book begins with the letters of an English explorer, Captain Robert Walton. He tells us about Victor Frankenstein, a scientist from Geneva, who he meets in the Arctic. Frankenstein has discovered the secret of creating life, and he decides to make a human being. He visits graveyards at night, and collects bodies. Using different parts of these, he creates and brings to life a being, which is both man and monster.

The monster is huge and ugly, but also intelligent and sensitive. Of course, when people see it, they are terrified, so the poor monster has no friends and feels lonely and depressed. Finally, it asks Frankenstein to make it a wife. This he refuses to do, and the angry monster kills Frankenstein's bride, Elizabeth, and his brother and best friend. Frankenstein is heartbroken and wants to kill the monster, which runs away. Frankenstein chases it across the world and dies when they meet in the Arctic. The monster then kills itself.

There are over 40 films that tell the story of Frankenstein. The first was made as long ago as 1910. It's a fascinating tale because of the complex character of the monster, which is both frightening and sad at the same time.

The best video game ever!

- 1 Do you play any computer games? Which? How often? Have you heard of Tetris?
- 2 Read the first part of the article about Tetris. Answer the questions.
 - How old is the game?
 - Who created it? Where did he work?
 - Where did the game spread to after Moscow?

Alexey Pajitnov and son

TETRIS

“The best-selling video game ever!”

Over 35 years old and it is still played all over the world.

It is said that it's difficult to find a video-game player who has never heard of Tetris – over 495 million have been sold worldwide and it's still selling!

The game has a long and unusual history

- It was created in Russia, in 1984, by Alexey Pajitnov, an Artificial Intelligence researcher at the Russian Academy of Science in Moscow.
- Pajitnov invented games as a hobby and many of them were enjoyed by his colleagues at the academy – Tetris most of all.
- The game became so popular it spread from Moscow to Budapest, and in 1989 it was discovered by a British software publisher and then exported to the US.
- Tetris is the biggest-selling video game by far. Minecraft is the only other video game to have sold over 100 million units.

Why has it remained so popular for so many years?

There are a great many classic video games – so what is it about Tetris that has made it so universally popular?

- It is an easy puzzle game to play. It's made up of coloured squares – simple enough to be played by everyone, young and old, but ... it is mastered by only a few.
- It can be played on any computer – you don't need the latest model and people in every country can play.
- Its simplicity means you can play as you go, anywhere, any time – you don't have to sit and play for long periods of time.
- In 1989, the Nintendo Game Boy was launched in Japan, and Tetris was the perfect game for this, the first handheld computer – as, of course, it is today with the smartphone.

- It is played by generations of people, on tablets, laptops, smartphones and game consoles. There is little doubt that years from now it will be downloaded by our children and grandchildren – the latest and new version of the most important video game in history.

3 10.1 Read and listen to the whole article. Correct the false information in these sentences.

- 1 Nearly 495 million games have been sold worldwide.

Love football or hate football – most people round the world have heard of Manchester United.

Football (or soccer, as it is called in the US) is the world's most popular sport, with 1.6 billion global fans. Recently, 54,000 of these fans, from 39 countries, were surveyed about their favourite football team, and Manchester United (or 'Man. U') was named the most popular club ever.

The club, nicknamed the 'Red Devils', has 659 million fans worldwide and their games are broadcast to over 1.15 billion homes. Barcelona, Real Madrid, and Bayern Munich were the next most popular.

Man. U fans can be found anywhere and everywhere, but the club is particularly popular throughout Asia, especially in India and China. Taxi drivers from Mauritius to Vietnam, learning that they have an English person in their cab, often respond with, 'Ah, English! Manchester United! Can you tell me ... ?' It's quite difficult to continue the conversation if you're not a football fan and know nothing about their favourite team.

'Glory, glory Man. United!'

MANCHESTER UNITED

‘Number one club in the world’s number one sport!’

MAN. U – A BRIEF HISTORY

- It was founded in 1878, and is one of the oldest football teams in the world. The first players all worked for a local railway company. It wasn't named Manchester United until 1902.
- In 1910, it moved to its now famous football ground, Old Trafford. The ground is often now nicknamed the 'Theatre of dreams'.
- In 1945, Matt Busby became manager and brought a lot of young players (known as 'Busby's Babes') into the team. This was a very successful move.
- 1958 was a dark year for the club. The plane bringing the team home from the European Cup crashed in the snow at Munich airport. Eight players were killed. Matt Busby survived, and eventually he created another great team.
- Alex Ferguson was another very successful manager. During his 20 years at the club, from 1986, the club won 25 major trophies.
- Since 2015, Man. U has been considered the world's most valuable football brand. The team sells about 2 million shirts a year – more than Real Madrid and FC Barcelona put together. Adidas, DHL, Uber, and Toshiba are just a few of the companies that have made business deals with the club. Their logos often appear on the players' shirts.

Busby's Babes

WHY IS THE CLUB SO POPULAR?

Perhaps it's because, despite many ups and downs over the years, they've won a great many trophies, both national and international. Perhaps it's the number of talented players who have played for the team. These include, George Best, Eric Cantona, David Beckham, Rio Ferdinand, Cristiano Ronaldo, and Wayne Rooney. Perhaps it's because they have some very famous fans including Usain Bolt, Justin Timberlake, and Enrique Iglesias. Maybe it is because Old Trafford really is a theatre of dreams where players and fans can find fairy-tale glory and make dreams come true.

THE PROS AND CONS OF SOCIAL MEDIA SITES

Social media sites, such as Facebook, have many advantages. They are an excellent way of keeping in touch with people in your life, friends and family. They are a great way of finding old friends. You can communicate with these people at any time you want and in many ways, you can share your photos or your favourite music and videos with them. You can join groups with similar interests to yourself, sports, hobbies and your work.

Social media sites have many disadvantages. You are often flooded with requests from unknown or unwanted 'friends'. Friends and family may find out too much about your private life, and you may hear about boring events in their lives. You can be tagged in pictures that you don't want others to see. The biggest problem is that you can waste too much time on Facebook. Some people can become addicted to it.

Social media sites are definitely here to stay. They are now one of the main means of communication worldwide. We can't imagine our lives without them.

- 4 Put the linking words on the left into the correct place in the lines of each paragraph. Sometimes you will need to change the punctuation.

The golden girl of Martha Lane Fox –

She has been named one of the 20 most powerful people in technology today. She's a dotcom multi-millionaire who believes passionately that Internet access should be for everyone, young and old. She has had amazing success but has also known tragedy.

He's been collecting the cans since he was 15, but his passion for them started when he was just five, and he was given his first can of Coke. He has now collected over 20,000 cans, and amazingly,

C TWO BARBIE DOLL COLLECTORS

There are over 100,000 Barbie doll collectors worldwide, but Bettina Dorfman, 58, from Düsseldorf, Germany has the world's largest collection – over 17,000 dolls, worth nearly $300,000! She has been collecting them since she was ten, when she was given a Barbie during a stay in hospital. She has Barbies all over her house and has a special room, called commemorative coin for Prince Charles and Diana's engagement. They have now spent over £100,000 on the collection and turned their house into a museum. David, (who has a passion of his own – he collects beer cans and has 5,800 of them!), has started a business taking tour groups round their home. Jan and David sometimes laugh themselves, unlike many of the royal fans who visit the museum – these fans are often very serious about the Royals and complain if the images of the Queen, Charles, Camilla, Diana, William, Kate, etc. aren't lifelike enough. Jan's favourite piece is a doll of the newborn Prince George in 2013. There has been renewed interest in her collection since the latest royal weddings and births – as she says, the royal family is a never-ending story and this is good for business!

each one is different. In 2013, Davide received the Guinness World Record award for the 'Largest Collection of Soft Drink Cans' and he still holds the title. His cans come from about 90 countries – but not Cuba and North Korea – the only two countries where Coca-Cola isn't sold. His father travelled on business, and often brought unusual cans home from his trips. The first one was from Germany, in 1979, with the word 'Coca-Cola' translated into various languages. Davide has got many duplicates – this is useful when he wants to swap cans with other collectors. He uses his website to swap them and to search worldwide for the rarest, such as those made of gold and silver, often produced for special anniversaries. These are possibly his favourites and worth between $400 and $500 each!

'Barbie's Kingdom' for her favourite Barbies, including an original one from 1959 – the year Barbie was 'born' at the International Toy Fair in New York. She is now worth a possible $5,000!

Bettina doesn't just collect the dolls, she's also a Barbie doctor. She runs a Barbie hospital in her kitchen and repairs broken dolls from all over the world. Bettina wanted her daughter, Melissa, to share her passion, but Melissa is more interested in table tennis.

And Barbie collectors aren't all girls. Jian Yang, 33, from Singapore, has over 6,000 dolls. His interest began when he was a little boy and wasn't allowed to have one. His passion grew as he grew, and he started to collect them.

However, the Barbies have not been good for his love life – he believes that girlfriends worry about not being as beautiful as the dolls!

Amazingly, there's a National Barbie Day on March 9th!

Risk and chance

- 1 Work in pairs and answer the questions about risks and chance. Then discuss them as a class.

A How likely do you think people are to die from these things? Put them in order, with 1 the most likely.

- _____ transport accidents
- _____ shark attack
- _____ accident in the bath
- _____ not eating fruit & vegetables
- _____ terrorist attack
- _____ lack of exercise

- _____ being overweight
- _____ murder

Which of the things do you feel are most dangerous?

B If you toss a coin nine times, and it lands on heads every time, what are the chances that it will land on tails on the next throw?

- 40% • 50% • 60%

C If there are 48 people in a room, what are the chances that two of them will have the same birthday?

- 25% • 55% • 95%

- 2 Read the text quickly. Which questions in 1 are answered? (See p157 for the full answers to the first question.)

What do these numbers in the text refer to?

- 1 in 5,000 • 1 in 300,000 • 1 in a million

- 3 Read the text again. Are the sentences true (✓) or false (X)? Correct the false ones.

- 1 1,600 people died in the 9/11 plane attacks.
- 2 Reading the news isn't a good way to learn what's most dangerous in life.
- 3 Americans should worry more about shark attacks.
- 4 Gerolamo Cardano had personal reasons for studying probability.
- 5 A 100% increase in risk is always a big problem.
- 6 Friday 13th is a dangerous day to drive on one UK motorway.
- 7 A probability study needs to be big and long to have any real meaning.
- 8 You can always find someone with the same birthday as you in a group of 48 people.

What are the chances

Mathematician Julia Gilroy explains

How risky is it?

In the year following the 9/11 plane attacks, many Americans decided flying was too risky, and drove instead. About 1,600 people died as a result. That's because the chances of dying in a plane crash are 1 in 11 million, but for a car crash they're much higher – 1 in 5,000. The problem is that people feel something is dangerous, but don't understand the true risk.

Plane crashes, terrorist attacks, and murders are big news stories, so we remember them and feel afraid. If the news told us that thousands died that day from bad diet, lack of exercise, and car accidents, we wouldn't forget their dangers so easily. On average, one American dies every day in an accident in the bath. One American dies each year from a shark attack. So, if we were logical, we'd find having a bath more frightening than sharks!

Understanding risk

To understand risk, you need to understand probability. The first person to study it was a 16th century Italian mathematician, Gerolamo Cardano. A big gambler, Cardano wanted to know the chances of winning money at different games. He was the first to show probability as a fraction or percentage, e.g. 1 in 4 or 25%.

Unfortunately, these numbers can confuse us. If you hear that the chances of being killed by lightning are 1 in 300,000, you won't worry about it. If you heard that 24,000 people die from lightning strikes every year, you might be more careful in the next storm.

of that happening?!

the world of probability.

Don't believe all you read in the papers

CANCER DANGER

IN BACON AND SAUSAGES

Full English can double cancer risk

Shock finding of NHS report:

82% MORE CHANCE
OF DYING IN HOSPITAL AT WEEKENDS

HEALTH RISK OF HERBAL PILLS

Doctors warn of risk of mixing herbal remedies with statins and cancer drugs

Again, newspapers don't help. '40% increase in cancer risk from eating X!' shouts the headline. That's a big increase, so should you stop eating X? Well, not if the risk of getting that cancer is very small before the increase, e.g. 1 in every 1000 people. Even if eating X doubled that risk to 2 in 1000, you'd still be very unlikely to get it.

So, don't believe everything you read about probabilities. In a study of one UK motorway over five months, traffic accidents on Friday 13th were 50% more likely to result in serious injuries than accidents on Friday 6th. How can that be true?! In fact, it's simply chance that it happened on that motorway during that period. If you did a bigger and longer study, there would be no difference.

What a coincidence!

At a party, two people have the same birthday – what a coincidence! Well, not really. If there are 48 people there, it's 95% likely to happen. And probability says that even very unlikely coincidences will happen sometimes. The Bulgarian lottery produced the same six numbers two weeks in a row in 2009. It seems unbelievable. But why? Those numbers were exactly as likely to come out as any others. If you flip a coin, it is possible for it to land heads 20 times in a row (but the chances of it happening are one in a million). And although it then feels like it's more likely to be tails on the 21st throw, it's not – the chances of a heads are always 50%! Probability does feel improbable sometimes!

MY BEST MAN AND BEST FRIEND

My best friend was my Best Man at my wedding when I get married two year ago. He's name is Flavio and we met in university in Bologna. In fact, we met on our very first day their. Flavio was first person I spoke with and we discovered that we were both studying Spanish and that we were both football fans. When we left university, we went together travelling during six months. We've had a fantastic time touring north and south america.

When we were in Mexico, we met two sisters of Chicago, Tamsin and Tanya. Now I'm married with Tanya, and next year Flavio and Tamsin going to get married.

I like Flavio because he very funny, and I'm never boring when we are together. I move to a different town soon, but I'm sure we will often text or email ourselves.

1.3 Conor and Karen McGrady, retired teachers, empty-nesters and global travellers

- K I think we're typical 'empty-nesters'! We have two children, twins, Branna and Brady, they're 20 now ... and when they both left home, just two years ago now, our house felt really big and ...
- C ... and empty – it was just the two of us.
- K Yes, it was too quiet. We missed all their noise, their music and their friends.
- C Yeah, we even missed all the mess.
- K I'm not so sure about that! Anyway, Branna went to London to study music, and Brady went to South America – he's travelling there with a friend.
- C So ... I said to Karen, 'Why don't we go travelling, too?'
- K Yeah, we're both nearly 60, but we still feel young, and we didn't enjoy teaching any more, -er ... -er teaching teenagers is really tiring ...
- C So ... in just six months we retired from our teaching jobs, rented our house in Portrush.
- K ... to a nice young couple.
- C ... yeah – and we bought a second-hand camper van for £4,000 and set off for France.
- K Last year we just toured Europe – we went from campsite to campsite, first in France, then in Spain and Portugal. We loved every minute.
- C Yeah, we had a great time. Next year we're going to visit Branna in Italy – she's going to study in Milan. And then we're going to fly to Chile, hire a van there, and meet Brady. We're going to travel with him and his friend for a bit.
- K We're really excited about that. We can't wait!

1.9 Jess's three friends

This is a very special photo for me. It's me with my three very best friends. Aren't they fabulous! Jo, on the right, is my oldest friend, my absolutely forever friend. We were both born in the same hospital, on the same day, and Jo's mum and mine became good friends. So, Jo and I played together a lot when we were little kids and we went to the same schools. We had other friends of course, but she is the one I can talk to about anything and everything. She was the wild one. I wasn't so much, but I loved her crazy clothes and the way she changed her hair colour every week! After school, I went to university in Newcastle and she went to study fashion in London. There was no need to text and call daily, but we knew we were always there for each other – good times and bad times – and, of course, whenever we meet it's the same as ever. I love Jo.

Dukey is a new friend – a very new friend. We joined the same advertising company on the same day, just a couple of months ago, but already I feel as if he's a best friend. He's a great guy ... great fun and very talented. Everyone loves Dukey because he makes us laugh. He's going to go far, I'm sure. His mum and dad are from Barbados, but he was born here. He talks about holidays there – we're all saving like mad so we can go too. He says his grandparents would love us all! This picture shows the first time Jo met Dukey. You can see how well they get on – two crazy, fun, kind, clever people.

Ah, and then there's Raff, short for Rafferty ... 'red-haired Rafferty' we called him at school, but nobody calls him that now. Well Raff ... he's not a new friend. In fact, he was my first boyfriend when I was 14. We were really sweet together, so everyone said. But then his family moved to Dubai, his dad got a job there. We emailed for a bit but then lost touch. Years later, I suddenly saw the name Rafferty Lucas on Facebook – it's an unusual name, so I 'friended' him saying 'are you the Rafferty Lucas who went to ...?' etc. And of course he was. Jo was as surprised as I was. Anyway, he's now back in the UK, working near me. Isn't that amazing? He had a girlfriend when we first contacted, but ... -er that's finished now. He's my 'friend reunited' and obviously it's different from when we were teenagers, but we still laugh at the same things ... who knows? ... maybe we'll get back together. You can see why I love this picture so much.

1.10 How did they meet? A survey

A survey of over 10,000 couples asked how they first met. The top three were: first, with 25%, 'through friends', second, 'at work', with 18%, and third, 'at school or university', with 13%. Next, 'online dating' is 12% and 'social media' 7% – this means that nowadays about 19% of couples don't actually meet face to face! 6% meet at a bar or club and only 5% through family – that seems surprising. Last of all, 3% meet on a blind date. That leaves 11% who didn't meet in any of these places.

1.11 What happened next?

Kitty

Ross texted the day after we met – I was really pleased! I texted him back immediately. We arranged to meet at his workshop to plan my wardrobe – that was a couple of months ago now, and the wardrobe's nearly finished. It's going to be beautiful. Ross is a wonderful carpenter. He came up to Bristol when I was working at a festival there, and we had a great time. All my mates loved him. Oh, and I met his flatmate, Mark. He was nice too, very nice, in fact – we talked a lot about music. I'm very happy with Ross, but it's early days and I still want to travel and perhaps work abroad – that's a bit of a problem.

Ross

I sent Kitty a text the next day, and she texted back immediately. I like that. She doesn't play games! Pretty soon after that I started work building her wardrobe. She has a really nice flat. She's often away working – she was at a festival in Bristol two weeks ago. I went up there to see it and to see her – it's not far from here. I met some of her friends, and we had a great time but I didn't like the music very much. I really hope this is the beginning of a special relationship – I can see a future together. Oh, and she finally met Mark. He liked her a lot – I just knew he would.

1.12 Words with two meanings

She left hurriedly to catch her train.
- What kind of computer games do you like playing?
How kind of you to bring me some flowers.
- I love travelling by train.
He's going to train for the marathon.
- What do you mean? I don't understand you.
He never even buys me a coffee. He's very mean.

2.3 Being a twin

Chloe and Leah

- 1 How do they feel when they're together?
Much braver.
- 2 Why does Leah always want to be with Chloe?
Because she never feels sad when she's with her.
- 3 Do they always wear the same clothes?
No, not always, but they usually do.
- 4 Are they starting to look different now?
Yes, they are.
- 5 How does Leah feel about that?
She hates it.
- 6 Why does Chloe think it's good to spend more time apart?
Because they're getting older.

Liam and Dylan

- 7 Why doesn't Dylan like being a twin?
Because people don't see what's special about you.
- 8 What does Dylan never order in a restaurant?
The same thing as Liam.
- 9 Where are Liam and Dylan living?
Liam is living in Leeds and Dylan is living in Manchester.
- 10 What are they studying?
Liam is studying Physics and Dylan is studying Drama.
- 11 Why don't they feel so competitive now?
Because they're living different lives.
- 12 Which twin has got a girlfriend?
Dylan.

2.4 Talking to Chloe and Leah

- I So, you both say that having a twin sister stops you feeling nervous about things?
- L Yes. We're practising for a school play at the moment, and I don't like speaking in front of lots of people, but when I see Chloe, I feel braver.
- I Do you both sometimes know how the other person is feeling?
- L Yes! Sometimes I'm going to say, 'Let's go to the park', but before I can say it, Chloe says, 'Shall we go to the park?'.
- I And I see you're wearing the same clothes today. Do you like doing that, Chloe?
- C Mmm, not all the time. Leah likes wearing dresses, but sometimes I want to wear jeans!

2.5 Talking to Liam and Dylan

- I So, you don't like being a twin, Dylan?
- D Well, sometimes it's good. But I often think people only see me as a twin – they don't see me as me.
- I You say you're not as similar as other twins, Liam. Why is that?
- L Well, we weren't always in the same class at school because we did different subjects. And we have very different interests now – I like science and Dylan prefers arts and drama. And we're living in different cities, so we have different friends.
- I And do you think you're not so competitive now, Dylan?
- D Well, I always want to do things better than Liam! But you can't be competitive when you're doing completely different things. I'm no good at science, and he's rubbish at acting!
- L I'm not rubbish! I just don't like it!

2.10 Mrs Crumble

There's a young man living in the flat below me at the moment. I think his name's Alfie Smith – I once got one of his letters by mistake. I gave it back to the postman the next day. I don't talk to Alfie – he never says hello to me.

He hasn't got a job – well, he doesn't go out to work in the morning like most people, that's for sure! He doesn't get up till the afternoon! And he's never dressed for work – he never wears a suit or anything smart – he wears jeans and a T-shirt all the time. Goodness knows where he gets his money from, but he seems to go out every night. He goes to bed very late – I never see him come home. Tuh! It's all fun and no work for young people these days!

There are people coming in and out of his flat all day long. I've no idea how many people are staying there. Four? Five? Have none of them got jobs to go to?

He's got a girlfriend. She's very pretty. Blond hair, dyed. She's living with him. I know young people often live together nowadays, but I don't like it, living together and not married. It's not right.

And why does he make so much noise?! Mmm, it's because he doesn't think about me upstairs. Listen! There it goes, now – he's listening to loud music again! He listens to it all the time! Oh, young people these days, they live in their own world, and they just don't care about anyone else. They don't even notice old people like me. He probably doesn't even know who I am.

2.11 Alfie

Things are going well right now! I've got this great new flat – I love it! The only thing is, it's below an old lady, and that's a bit difficult. Her name's Mrs Crumble. I always say hello when I see her in her garden, 'Hello, Mrs Crumble, how are you?' or 'Nice day, Mrs Crumble!', but she never answers – I think she's a bit deaf.

She probably thinks I'm unemployed, 'cos I don't go out to work in the morning, and I don't wear a suit or anything, just jeans and a T-shirt usually. You see, I'm a musician. I play the saxophone, and at the moment I'm playing in a band in a jazz club. I don't start till 8.00 at night, and I don't finish till 2.00 in the morning, so I sleep from 3.00 till 11.00.

There's only me living here, but some of the other guys in the band are using my flat to keep their instruments in, so they come in and out a lot. I've got a lovely girlfriend – she's the singer in the band. She lives on the other side of town, but she comes here a lot, obviously.

I know I make quite a bit of noise, practising my saxophone. And I'm giving saxophone lessons here at the moment to make some more money. I'm sorry, but what can I do? You can't play the saxophone very quietly!

I know Mrs Crumble watches me all the time. It's sad really – she's got nothing else to do. I'd like to get to know her and maybe offer to help if she needs it, but she's so suspicious of young people. I'm sure she thinks we're all lazy and sit around taking drugs. Ha! I work really hard!

Unit 5

5.1 Hopes and plans

Damian

I'm so fed up with taking exams. I hate school. I'd like to leave now and get a job, any job. I want to earn some money but my mum and dad say that I can't leave school. They think I'll regret it later, but I don't think I will.

Paula

I'm a paramedic. I love my job, but it's very stressful and I need a break. Fortunately, I'm going on holiday next month. We love going to Spain – we go every year. I'm planning to do nothing but read and sunbathe on the beach for two whole weeks!

Marek

I work in advertising. I won an award for one of my ads, but now I need a change. I'm thinking of applying for a job with a big company in New York. I saw it advertised online, and it looks like the job for me. I'd love to work there for a couple of years.

Grace

I'm a student in my last year at university. I've got debts of over £35,000. I'm going to study really hard for my exams because I hope to get a well-paid job and pay my debts. I hate owing so much money. I'm going for an interview next Friday. Wish me luck!

Claire

I've got three kids under five. I love them dearly, but I'm so tired and I miss my work at the hospital. I'm looking forward to returning to my job when the baby's older. I get fed up with staying at home all day, especially in winter. My husband's great when he's at home, but he often works late.

Angus

I'm retired at last, and I can now enjoy doing my favourite things. I try to go fishing every day, but my wife sometimes asks me to help in the house. She wants us to go travelling now I'm retired, but I'm just happy spending all day by the river.

R Come on, Emma, it's a special birthday. We've all got special birthdays this year – Harry's going to be ten, I'm going to be 60, and you're going to be 30!

- H Yeah – Granddad, that's really special! I can't wait to be ten. I'll be in double figures!
R Huh, you're growing up much too fast for my liking! Slow down!
H Grandad, I've got a really good idea ... let's have a party for all three of us! We'll invite all our friends – it'll be huge! I love parties.
R OK, Harry, but careful ... it's a nice idea but big parties are expensive – we'll have to talk to your Grandma.
E I'm not sure I want to have a party at all. It's all right for you two – you're looking forward to your birthdays – I'm not! I'm going to be 30! I can't believe it. It seems so old. Some people say 30 is the new 20 – but not for me. What have I got to look forward to now? A 9-to-5 job in the city!
R Just a minute – do you think I want to be sixty? You've got the rest of your life to look forward to.
E Yeah, but dad, you're happy with your life – you have your two children and your grandchildren ... and you love your job and mum loves her job, too.
R OK, we like our jobs, but being a doctor isn't easy – it's very stressful and teaching teenagers is not easy for your mum either ... we'd like to retire soon, but that's not possible for another few years.
E Well, I'd love to go travelling again ... like I did when I was 23.
H I want to do that! Me and my friend, Zac, are going to travel the world together. We're planning it now. Where did you go Auntie Emma?
E I went with a friend from university and we went all over the world – Australia, New Zealand, South America. We even spent three weeks on the Galapagos Islands – that was amazing. We had a fantastic time. We were away for a whole year.
H Oh wow! The Galapagos Islands! Did you see the tortoises?
E Of course we did.
H Fantastic! I'll tell Zac. He won't believe it!
R Ah yes – wonderful ... but then it was difficult when you came back.
E Yeah, it was difficult to start studying again. And dad, ... you know, I'm still not sure I want to be a lawyer.
R Come on, you've nearly finished your studies. You're sure to get a good job, and then you and John can get married and ...
E ... and have babies and on and on ... like you and mum. Dad, I'm not sure I'm ready for all this. I know both you and David were married at my age, but ...
R Yes, and your brother's very happy with his life.
H Of course he is ... Daddy's got me and Rosie – er ... actually, Rosie's a bit of a pain sometimes – she cries a lot.
E Harry – she's only five! Oh, I don't know ... maybe John and I will go travelling together before we finally grow up and settle down!
H Yeah! Can I come?
R Well, Emma, the future's in your hands! At your age your mum and I had two kids, two full-time jobs, and not a lot of money.
E Oh dad! I know – bring out the violins. I'm sorry – I know how lucky I am, it's just ...

- R ... that's OK Emma. I understand more than you think. Now, what about this party?!
- H Yeah!

6.13 David Taylor Bews

I come from Newcastle in England, but I live in Perth, Australia, now. I've been here nearly ten years. My wife, Jodie, is Australian, and our children, Russell and Alice, were born here. Alice is named after her great-grandmother – that's my grandmother – Alice Bews. She's 89 now and still lives in Newcastle, and she's in great shape for her age.

Now, there's a programme on TV, called Who Do You Think You Are, where famous people find out all about their family histories, going right back. I love it, and it's made me want to know more about my own family history. You can do a lot of research online, but even better, I've started finding out more from my grandmother – and she loves talking about it all! I knew that she was one of nine children, which is amazing, but I didn't know she was the youngest, and, the only one born in England. Her brothers and sisters were all born in Scotland, and that's where we all come from originally, from the Orkney Islands, which are in the very north of Scotland. My great-grandfather was a farmer there over a hundred years ago.

And, I love this, my grandmother told me that our family's ancestors were actually Norwegian – they came over to Scotland in the 9th century. She says that's why we all have blonde hair in our family – isn't that amazing?

Anyway, it became more and more difficult for my great-grandparents to make a living there as farmers, so they travelled south, and finally arrived in the north of England, in Newcastle, with their eight children. Alice was born not long after they arrived.

6.14 Talking to Grandma

D = David, A = Alice

- D So, Grandma, your parents came from the Orkney Islands – is that right?
- A Yes. My mother was called Jane. She grew up there, and she got married when she was only 17.
- D And you were her ninth child, weren't you?
- A Yes, and I was the only one born in England. Life was really hard for my mother – you see, my father died when I was only three.
- D Oh, I didn't know you were that young when it happened! That's awful!
- A Well, it means I can't really remember him at all.
- D So what did your mother do?

- A She worked as a cleaner, and a dressmaker.
D Wow, her life wasn't easy then, was it? She had two jobs, and all those children! That's ...
A Oh, yes, she was an amazing lady. My two eldest brothers, Peter and William, they got work in the shipyards, so that helped a lot. Ah, ... it's not easy being the youngest – all my brothers and sisters have died now – I'm the only one left.
D I know. So, did you marry young, Grandma?
A No, I didn't marry till I was 22.
D But that's young! Really young!
A Oh, that wasn't unusual in those days. And I only had three children.
D Only! Two's enough work for us! And, you've got lots of grandchildren and great-grandchildren, haven't you?
A Yes, I have. They live all over the world – it's not just you that's gone to live abroad.
D I know. I have cousins in New Zealand and America. But cousin Peter still lives near you, doesn't he?
A Oh yes, he does. And he's helped me to keep in touch with you all with this Skype thing.
D It's great, isn't it?
A Oh yes, I love it. I can talk to all my grandchildren, and I've seen all my great-grandchildren as soon as they were born. And I get emails and texts all the time – it's all really wonderful, isn't it?
D It is, grandma. Anyway, it's been great talking to you. I've got more questions but I'll save them till next time.
A OK. You will stay in touch, won't you?
D Of course, I will, Grandma. Bye for now!

I = Interviewer, M = Mat

- I Hello, and welcome to My Favourite Things. Today I'm talking to the German photographer, Mat Hennek. Welcome, Mat.
M Hi.
I So, let's start with your favourite actor. You've chosen Daniel Day Lewis. Why do you like him so much?
M He's such a brilliant actor – I just love him in all his films. He's so talented, but he only does what he wants to do, and believes in, which I think is great.

- I Yes, he certainly deserves his three Oscars. And what about the world of sport?
M Well, I'm a football fan, and Bayern Munich is my team – I'm crazy about them. I always find them exciting to watch, and for me, they're simply the best – even when they aren't!
I Ah, you're a real fan! Now, your choice in music is interesting.
M Yes, Bach. I think his music is very special, unique in fact, and it's never ever boring. And of course my favourite musician is my partner, the pianist Hélène Grimaud. She's the coolest. You're always in the best hands when she's playing for you.
I That's lovely. OK, now to food.
M Well, I really like simple, country food. And I'm German, so my favourite meal is probably Nuremberg sausages and sauerkraut.
I Nuremberg sausages? I've never heard of those. What are they like?
M They're quite small, ... a little bit spicy, and ... so delicious!
I Mmm, I must try them! And your favourite book?
M I'm a great fan of the American writer, Cormac McCarthy, and I've chosen his Border Trilogy.
I Ah, I've never read his writing. What's it like?
M It's amazing – it's almost like poetry. His books are sad in some ways, but always full of hope.
I Well, I'll put him on my reading list. So, finally, your favourite TV programme?
M Oh, I thought The Americans was fantastic! It's a series about Russian spies living in America in the 1980s. It's quite shocking sometimes, but it can also be very funny.

🔊 7.9 The best things in life are free

Jane

Oooh, I think there are lots of things I like that don't cost anything. Let me think ... sunsets. There's nothing more beautiful. My house is on a hill opposite some fields, and in the evening when I look out of the living room window, I see some amazing sunsets. And ... well friends and family are the most important thing in my life. I've just become a grandmother to the most gorgeous baby boy! And hugs are free. I love hugs with all my grandchildren – they're something that money can't buy! But my youngest son still lives at home ... , he certainly isn't free! He costs me a lot of money!

Robin

Well, I work in an office in the city, and for me, the best thing is being in the countryside. I don't mind what the weather is like – even if it's rainy and windy, it's great to be outside, in nature. I like to be on my own when I go walking – it's a great time to think. But I suppose I do spend money driving to the countryside, so ... if you really want something that's free, then the park is the next best thing. There's a lovely park near my flat. It's got a small lake, and some wonderful trees, and I often go there for a quick walk after work – it's the easiest way to put the day's work behind me.

Charlotte

Erm, well, I don't have to pay for much in my life, just sweets, because I'm only eight, but ... I think the best thing for me is playing with my little sister, Ava. She's only four, so I'm a lot older than her. I've also got a brother, Dominic. He's six, but he doesn't like the games I like, so he isn't as much fun to play with as Ava. She's always waiting for me when I come home from school. She thinks I'm the best person in the whole world! We usually play hospitals, or schools. I'm the doctor or teacher, of course, because I'm the biggest.

Ella

Definitely the best thing in my life is being with my boyfriend, Alex. Of course, we sometimes do things together that cost money, like going to the cinema, but we don't need to spend anything to have a good time – we often just go out for walks or sit around chatting. He makes me laugh so much – he's the funniest person I know – and he's also the nicest friend anyone could have. We've been together nearly a year now, so it feels like our relationship just gets better and better. I think I'm really lucky.

Oliver

The best thing that's free in my life is my dog, Fudge. My uncle gave him to me for my thirteenth birthday. He was a puppy, and he's 11 now, so we've grown up together. He was SO cute as a puppy, but I think he's even more beautiful now. What's he like? Well, he's very loving, and ... he's also a bit crazy, and he's great fun to play with. He may be getting older, but he's still far more energetic than I am – I'm always more tired than him after a walk! And, I know it's very lucky that I haven't had to take him to the vet's very often – because that definitely isn't free!

8.1 Kurt Weiner – big wave surfer

I = Interviewer, K = Kurt

- I Kurt, do you have to be very fit and strong to be a big wave surfer?
K Yeah, you do. You have to be strong in mind and body. It's a fantastic sport but a dangerous one. I find doing Yoga helps me a lot.
I Yoga?!
K Yeah, a lot of surfers do yoga. You have to learn to hold your breath – and yoga helps with that and ... of course it helps you keep calm when things get difficult.
I I can understand that.
K I've learnt to hold my breath for over four minutes. That was one of the first things I had to learn – the bigger the wave the longer you have to do it.
I Four minutes! Wow! Kurt, did you have to start surfing when you were very young to be as good as you are today?
K I can't remember when I didn't surf – my dad took me before I was two years old.
I So, do you have to start young if you want to be a good surfer?
K Well, you don't have to, but it helps and living here it's the natural thing to do – it's just part of life on Oahu.
I You say you have to keep fit, so how often do you train?
K Well, I don't have to train every day, but I do most days – I go swimming underwater. I go to Three Tables Caves near my home – it's great for breath-holding practice.
I And do you travel to surf?
K I do, a lot. I've been to surf spots all over the world, from Mexico to China ... but right on my doorstep is one of the most famous waves in the world – the Banzai Pipeline. It's a fantastic ride!
I Kurt, you're a lucky guy. I hear you have a surf school, too. Can you teach me to surf?

B I don't think you should tell your brother. I think you should try to find some good things about her.
4 A I've got an important exam tomorrow, and I'm really nervous.

8.7 A health quiz – answers

- 1 You shouldn't skip breakfast.
This is not true. Skipping breakfast does not necessarily make you unhealthy. However, the fact is, that people who do have breakfast are more likely to look after their health generally – they eat healthily and exercise regularly, so they're more healthy anyway.
2 You should weigh yourself regularly.
This is true. Weighing yourself regularly helps you to keep a healthy weight. But you shouldn't do it too often – not every day, once a week is enough.
3 You must always warm up before hard exercise and cool down after. Yes, this is a good idea. Some fast walking to start and perhaps some yoga or Tai Chi afterwards.
4 Swimming is one of the best forms of exercise you can do. This is true. Some people say that swimming is the perfect exercise for the body. Tai Chi is also very good because it is both movement and relaxation. And don't forget walking! It's a simple but powerful way to keep healthy, as long as you do it in comfortable shoes!
5 You should do 30 minutes continuous activity rather than 10 minutes 3 times a day. This is not true. Best is short periods of 10 minutes, but it's fine to do both. You should try to do at least 150 minutes a week.
6 You should always exercise until it hurts – no pain, no gain! This is not true. You don't have to feel pain when you exercise to keep fit. Do it slowly at first. Little and often is better, and then build up to harder, longer exercises.
7 If you want to lose weight you should drink water after a meal. No, you should drink water before a meal. It helps you feel full, and you won't eat too much.
8 If you don't feel full after a meal you should wait 15 minutes and see how you feel then. This is a good idea. Sometimes you want to eat more just after a meal, but if you wait 15 to 20 minutes, your food fills your stomach and you start to feel full.
9 You should always choose water over other drinks to rehydrate after exercising.
Not true. It doesn't have to be water. Any non-alcoholic drink will rehydrate you.
10 It's better to exercise in the morning rather than the afternoon or night.
Not true. There is no best time. The important thing is just to exercise – you can do morning afternoon or night!

8.8 Andy Lambert – a stuntman's story

A = Andy Lambert, J = Justin

J Andy, I've often wondered ... and never asked – how did you become a stuntman?

A Well ... I first thought about it when I was at school. I always loved sports – all sports – athletics, swimming, even pole vaulting – anything and everything – and I loved climbing trees too, so I thought ... hmmm ... I'd like to be a stuntman.

J Really? You actually had the idea at school? It's not a job many people think of.

A Well, I did ... but then I thought that the people doing it had to be very special in some way – so it couldn't be me. But eventually when I was 29, I had the courage and got started. Twenty-nine is quite late for a stuntman.

J So what were the first jobs you did?

A Well, I worked as a film extra at first on some TV dramas – I was the person sat at the bar or just one of the crowd. But at the same time I worked at other skills – you have to do that – horse riding, high diving, and martial arts, of course. I did judo competitions, and I built a portfolio of photographs of myself.

J You really planned it carefully then.

A Yeah, I was keen ... and finally I got my first job. It was on a film called Onegin – a Russian romantic drama with Ralph Fiennes – I was doubling for Toby Stephens, Maggie Smith's son.

J Oh yeah – then what?

A Well, after that I got work on a Bond film, one with Pierce Brosnan, when he comes crashing through a restaurant window in a speedboat. That was me!

J I saw the film – I didn't recognise you!

A That's good – you're not meant to!

J I know! So ... how do you prepare for a film like that?

A First, you have to talk through the stunts with the director – so, for example, if you're going to fall out of a window you have to talk about how he, or she, wants you to move in the air and land – hit the ground, you know.

J Whoah, Andy! It sounds so dangerous. Have you ever been injured?

A Not too much. I'm lucky. Just a few bumps and bruises, but a lot of stuntmen and women do get injured – sprained ankles, broken arms and legs, and the like. If you think about it, if you have to fall off a horse say 10 or 12 times in one day, you are not going to feel great.

J I'm laughing but ...

A Actually, there was another injury.

J What was that?

A Well, I was going to do a really big film, in Greece – it was Captain Corelli's Mandolin with Nicholas Cage, and then just before I had to leave I sprained my ankle.

J What a shame! How did you do that?

A Well, I was running in my local park and I fell – can you believe it?

J You're kidding! You don't do much stunt work now do you?

A No, I don't. I haven't done much since I married and had kids – my wife was pleased when I stopped, but my sons love to hear about when dad was a stuntman. I still love a bit of danger in my life.

J OK – how about a game of squash with me now? That's enough danger for me!

9.8 An interview with Liz Davis

I = Interviewer, L = Liz Davis

I Hello, and welcome to Bookworld. This week in the studio we have Liz Davis from YAP, Young Adult Publishers. Liz, many people get confused about the difference between children's literature and young adult literature. Are they sometimes the same thing?

L Yes, they can be. Some of our books are for children as young as 12 and they aren't very different from other children's books. But many of the novels we publish are for 15 to 18 year olds, and the stories and subjects in those are not what you usually find in children's literature. They're, well, more adult.

I Now, children's literature is very big business at the moment – is that because of the recent popularity of young adult fiction?

L No, not really. We're in a golden age of children's literature for all ages right now. And it isn't the first golden age – there have been three. The first came in the 19th century, with the earliest fantasy books for children. Alice in Wonderland and Peter Pan were the first novels where ordinary children had adventures in a magical world.

I And until then, children's books had been quite serious and educational, hadn't they?

L Oh, yes! People thought children's stories should teach them morals. They were about children getting into dangerous situations in life because they'd behaved badly, and only the well-behaved children managed to escape! There's a lovely story called The Storyteller, by a writer called Saki, which makes fun of this idea.

I And when was the second golden age?

L In the 1950s. There'd been the Second World War and the atomic bomb, and a lot of children's stories were now more serious about saving the world from evil. Tolkien's Lord of the Rings is a good example, and C.S. Lewis's The Lion, the Witch, and the Wardrobe. It's not just the children in the story that are in danger; it's everything.

I And isn't that true of a more recent example of young adult fiction, the Harry Potter series?

L Yes, although I'm not sure it's correct to call the Harry Potter books young adult fiction. They were the first children's books that people of all ages read – from the very young to the very old! It's only the later Harry Potters, when the children become teenagers, that are more like young adult literature, but they're still not typical examples because they're all about the problems of using magic. Modern young adult novels are usually about the everyday personal problems that teenagers experience.

- I So the stories aren't set in fantasy worlds any more?
- L No, not so much. Some are, the Hunger Games books, for example. But most young adult literature is set in the very real world that teenagers live in.
- I Too real for some parents!
- L Yes, that's true. In the past, people often complained that young people's literature had never shown the reality of teenage life. Now, many parents aren't happy to find their children reading books that go into so much detail about relationships with the opposite sex, and about alcohol and drugs.
- I And how do you feel about that?
- L Well, these problems are part of life for teenagers today, and I think it helps if they see people learning to get through them. What I don't like is when young adult novels end miserably – I know most teenagers like to be miserable sometimes, but I think they're looking for a happy ending really!

'Once upon a time, a long time ago, there was a little girl called Bertha, who was very, very good.' The children looked disappointed. They had hoped for a better story from him.

'She was always well-behaved, and worked hard at school because she wanted to please her parents and teachers. She was never late, never dirty or untidy, never rude, and she never told lies.'

'Was she pretty?' asked the small girl.

'Not as pretty as you,' the young man said. 'But she was horribly good.'

The children were suddenly interested. Using the word 'horribly' with good was unusual, and they liked how true it sounded.

'Bertha was so good that she'd won three medals for it – one said 'Never late', one said 'Always polite', and the third said 'Best-behaved child in town'. She wore them every day as she walked around town, so that everyone knew how good she was.'

'Horribly good,' Cyril reminded him.

'Yes. Well, the King had heard how good this girl was, and he invited Bertha to tea at the Royal Palace. Bertha wore her best dress, which was very white and clean, put on her medals, and walked through the woods towards the King's palace. But in the woods, there lived a big hungry wolf. He quickly saw Bertha's clean white dress through the trees. 'Aha!' thought the wolf. 'Lunch!' He moved quickly and quietly through the trees towards Bertha. Bertha saw the wolf and ran, but it was difficult to run fast because of the medals. She hid in some bushes, but she was shaking with fear, and the wolf could hear the medals clinking together. He caught her, and ate every bit of her – except for the medals, of course.'

Part 1

- P This week on Worldly Wise we look at the world's most common habit chewing gum! Yes, chewing gum! Every year, 374 trillion sticks of chewing gum are made, and we chew 100,000 tons of it. So why do we do it and how many of us know what it's made of?
- I Excuse me, I see you are chewing gum.
- A Yeah.
- I And -er do you have any idea what it's made of?
- A Made of? Nah – I've never thought about it.
- I What about you? Do you know?
- B Er no idea – rubber maybe.
- I And -er do you know who invented it?
- A Erm, ... the Americans?
- B Yeah – the Americans – I bet it was invented in the US.

- I And finally, tell me – why do you chew it?
A and B Why?!
- A –Er, I dunno – it's cool ... it's cool to chew gum.
B It's something to do.
P Cool or not – chewing gum isn't made of rubber and it wasn't invented by the Americans. It was invented by the Swedes. The Swedes! I hear you say. But listen to Lilian Wood a chewing gum expert. Lilian welcome!
- LW Thank you. Well, the history of chewing gum goes back thousands of years. In Sweden in 1993 a skeleton of a teenage boy was found – this boy was 9,000 years old and in his mouth was some gum. It was made of tree sap and honey – and this is the first known chewing gum.
- P That's amazing. Perhaps we've always needed to chew things. After all babies are born wanting to chew – they put everything into their mouths. So, Lilian, why do we chew gum?
- LW We chew to clean our teeth and freshen our breath but also just because we like chewing – it keeps us calm.
- P Yeah – 'Keep calm and chew gum!'
- LW Yes – the ancient Greeks chewed a gum called mastic – it's a type of tree sap. The Greeks thought it was good for the health and it made the breath sweet-smelling. We also know that in the first century AD the Mayan Indians in South America enjoyed chewing gum – they chewed a tree sap called chicle. They wrapped it in leaves and put it in their mouths ...
- P The first packet of chewing gum!
- LW Yes indeed – the first packet of gum.

10.10 Part 2 – The history of modern chewing gum

- P So, what's the history of modern chewing gum? Well, in 1871 Thomas Adams, an American inventor, introduced chewing gum from Mexico to the US ... and it became popular very quickly with American kids.
- LW Yes, but it was in 1892 when a very clever young man called William Wrigley decided chewing gum was the thing of the future. He was a business genius – he was the first to use advertising to help sell his products.
- P Really? What did he do?
- LW He hired hundreds of pretty young girls – he called them, 'The Wrigley girls', and they walked up and down the streets of New York and Chicago handing out free chewing gum. Millions of pieces were given away.
- P Very clever, very modern!
- LW Yes, he also had huge electric billboards made – one billboard was a mile long and ran along the side of a train track. So, of course, Wrigley's gum soon became very popular all over the US.
- P But how did the rest of the world get to love chewing gum?
- LW Well, during the Second World War, American soldiers were given Wrigley's gum to help them stay calm. In fact, in 1944 all chewing gum production went to the US Army and they took it overseas and gave it to children. Soon they were followed everywhere with the cry, 'Got any gum, chum?' So, of course, it spread worldwide.
- P Yes, I believe it's even taken into space by the astronauts. So, Lilian what is it made of?

- LW Well, the strangest thing about gum today is that nobody knows exactly what it's made of – the recipe is secret!
- P Hah! Thank you Lilian. That's all fascinating ... but there's a problem with gum. It's a favourite habit, but when the flavour has gone and we finish chewing, what do we do? We throw it away – chewing gum litter covers the streets of all our towns. Did you know that the cost of cleaning it from the streets of London is more than £10 million a year?! Now that's a fact worth chewing on!

11.5 My kind of thing!

1 Paula

My passion at the moment is horse-riding – it's strange to hear myself say that 'cos I've only been doing it for about a year, and I never thought I'd love it so much. It all happened because I was talking to someone who rode horses, and I said that stupid thing people often say 'Oh, I've always wanted to do that', and she said 'Why don't you then?' And I thought, 'why not?' I've always liked horses, they're so big and powerful, but so beautiful when you see them racing round a field or a track. Riding's very physically demanding – your body has to move with the horse, and, of course, I've fallen off a few times, but amazingly the more you fall the less it hurts. I've been learning how to give really clear instructions – you have to understand your horse – they have moods, you never know what a ride is going to be like – a horse you had a fantastic ride on one week, can be slow and miserable the next week. I like that about horses – they have personalities.

2 Andrew

I'm passionate about poetry. I studied English Literature at university, but it wasn't until after I graduated that I really saw the point of poetry and started writing it myself. I've been trying to write for about ten years now – I'm not sure it's any good, but I keep trying. I've met some other hopeful poets, like me, and I've heard them reading it aloud – it was amazing. I felt the power of the words. The thing that I like so much about it is that you can say so much with just a few words – a little means a lot. Each word, each noun, verb, adjective, preposition has to work hard. There's a poem by Simon Armitage called To His Lost Lover – it's a poem of regret, about not saying the things you wish you had said to a past lover. This poem really speaks to me – poetry's all about saying what often goes unsaid and with passion. It can be such a help in your life. If you feel tired or depressed, you can always find a poem that will help.

3 James

The thing I'm passionate about, and this may surprise many people, is –er British weather. I've been interested in it ever since I was a child. I loved all our rainy holidays by the English seaside. I know everyone complains about the weather, but I love it. It means there's always something to talk about and it's a great way of starting a conversation at a bus stop. Also, you know, it's the rain that gives us our green, green fields. I think if you live somewhere like California and there are 365 days of sunshine, it's boring. But here ... perhaps it's been raining all morning, and then suddenly the sun comes out, and you really appreciate that sunshine. It's magic – raindrops are like diamonds in the sun. And it's not true that it rains all the time in Britain, it doesn't – it just rains quite a lot. You know that joke – 'if you don't like English weather – wait ten minutes' – that's why it's always interesting.

11.6 Alison's life

I didn't marry until quite late. I met my husband Ben when I was 30, and we didn't marry until I was 33 – that was in 2012. We got married in a church near where my mum lives. Ben and I had a great honeymoon, we toured America, we were away for three weeks. And soon after that I found I was pregnant. That was Ellen, our first baby. She was born the year after we got married, and two years after that, in 2015, we had the twins, Tessa and Tom. They've been keeping us busy ever since! I'm exhausted most of the time, but they're great fun. I'm really glad I married Ben – he's a great dad. I want it to be forever. My mum and dad divorced when I was just 13, and I don't want us to do that. My mum helps me with the kids, but my dad died last year – he had a heart attack. I miss him a lot.

11.8 My vision for the 21st century – Part 1: Reasons to be optimistic

Although the world is facing many serious problems at the moment, I am generally optimistic about the future. We've been worrying about the end of civilization for over a hundred years now, but we've always found ways to deal with the problems we face, and I believe we can do the same in the future. Life could actually become much better for us all with improvements in healthcare and technology. We've already made big improvements in life expectancy. People have been living longer and longer lives since the 1950s, when most Americans lived for about 50 years. Nowadays, life expectancy is nearly 80 years, and in future, most people will live to be a hundred. People often say that they don't want to live to be a hundred, but that's because they imagine living in an old and broken body. We've already discovered how to grow new cells to repair parts of the body, and when we can grow new hearts, kidneys, and livers outside of the body, we'll be able to use them like the spare parts of a car, keeping our bodies fit and healthy until we die. People worry about world population becoming an even bigger problem if people live longer. However, when people become more educated and richer, they don't need or want to have so many children. The challenge therefore is to use the technology we have to educate people better and to use robots to create wealth that we can share more equally. In recent times, many people have been demanding independence and wanting more control of their own countries. I think we need to go the other way. I strongly believe that there will be a world government in future because our problems and resources will have to be managed at a global level.

11.9 My vision for the 21st century – Part 2: Reasons to be pessimistic

There are reasons to be pessimistic. There have always been selfish and greedy people, and there always will be. These people will refuse to accept that we need to look after our planet and use our resources carefully. They won't be interested in finding ways to live happily without spending money on more and more material things. These people will always want to fight wars to get what they want. We have the technology to make our lives better, but we need the wisdom to go with it. The big question is – how can we stop the most selfish and greedy people being in the positions of power in the world?

H I'm going to travel round South America.
L Sounds great! Is that just travelling, or working?

12.5 Why is Robert worried?

S = Scott, R = Robert

S Hi, Robert! How's it going?

R Not good, Scott. My company's losing money, and they're making a lot of cuts.

S Oh, no! Is your job safe?

R No, not at all. I'm really worried. If I lose my job, what will I do?

S Well, it's not always the end of the world, you know.

R Oh, easy for you to say – your company's doing really well. But what if it were you? If you lost your job, what would you do?

S Well, that's very unlikely – we're looking for new people at the moment! But if it happened, ... I'd start my own business.

R Mmm. I can't do that. It's a shame – if I were in sales, your company would probably give me a job.

S Oh they would, for sure! If I were you, I'd retrain!

Dan

The doctor says I need to do more exercise. I hate doing exercise.

And I'm not interested in cycling to work – I like driving.

I can't drink less coffee. I need ten cups a day.

I don't want to eat less junk food. I like junk food.

I can't cook, and I don't want to learn.

Why should I watch less TV? It's my only hobby!

I like going to bed really late.

I am not going to meditate! It's really boring!

12.8 At a crossroads in life

Jamie

I'm in my second year at university. I'm doing Physics, and I like my course. But the thing is, I sing and play guitar, and I joined a local band in my first year. The other band members aren't students – I met one of them in a pub. And, I love playing in the band – I'm discovering I'm more of a musician than I thought I was, and ... well, we're actually pretty good, and our last few concerts sold out completely. So, the other guys want to give up their jobs and try to make a living from it. It might not be much of a living, but if we were prepared to go on the road and travel, we'd get plenty of gigs in pubs and local halls. And if we recorded some of our songs, we could put them online and make some money from downloads. But obviously, I'd have to drop out of university, and ... my parents would go crazy! I don't know how easy it would be to get back onto a course later, so ... it feels like it would be a stupid thing to do really.

Sylvia

I'm a lawyer, and I've been with the same law firm for 11 years now. It's difficult work sometimes, but I love it, and I'm doing very well. Although I'm only 37, I'm one of the most senior people here. I know that if I continue in this job, when a certain person retires next year, I'll probably become one of the partners in the firm. That would be amazing. But ... well, I've never been sure whether I really want to have children – it's never seemed the most important thing to me. That's probably because it would mean giving up work for a year or two – I wouldn't want to go back to work too soon and try and do this job, and deal with a baby. But now that the clock is ticking fast, it's time to make a final decision. If I left now to have a baby, I don't think I'd get the partnership in the firm. I think they'd give it to someone else next year. But if I decided not to have children, I wonder if I'd really regret it later.

Donna

My husband died three years ago. He'd been very ill for a long time, so it wasn't a shock, but it hasn't been easy. We were married for 41 years. I couldn't imagine life without him when it happened, but ... here I am, and I need to decide what to do with my life now. I'm thinking of selling this house. It's nice that it's full of nice memories of our lives together, but I wouldn't lose those memories if I moved out. It's way too big for me really, and I think I'll feel happier and more relaxed if I live somewhere smaller. If I get a flat in the right area, in town, there'll be lots of people around, and I'd like that. But, my daughter really wants me to go and live with them – she says she could make part of their house a 'granny flat'. It's kind of them, and I love being around my grandchildren, but, oh, granny flat! That sounds so horrible! I'm still young – I'm only 68! And if I lived with them, I wouldn't feel independent any more.

12.9 What happened next?

Jamie

Well, I surprised myself! The scientist in me told me to continue with my course, but, the artist in me suddenly felt stronger, so I dropped out! I know I'll be able to get back onto a course somehow if I change my mind, and I felt I'd really regret it if I didn't try this weird and wonderful life I'm living. We're doing OK, just. And who knows, if we start selling a lot more downloads, we might make the big time!

Sylvia

It was an easy decision in the end. Nature is clever, and I started having really strong feelings about wanting to have a baby! I don't know how I'd live without little Oscar now – he's gorgeous! They've been great at work – they gave the partnership to someone else, but they say there'll be another one coming up in a few years, and I'll be first in line for that one.

Donna

I sold the house and decided to buy a flat. It's not in town, but it's not far away, so I can easily go there if I feel like I need to be among people. And it's not very far from my daughter's either, so she's happy that I'm close. She often comes round and brings the children to visit me. And I go to theirs for dinner a couple of times a week, but I still feel very independent.

Are you going? Yes, I am./No, I'm not. NOT ~~Yes, I'm.~~ Is Anna working? Yes, she is./No, she isn't. NOT ~~Yes, she's.~~

Use

The Present Continuous is used to express:

- 1 an activity happening now.

She can't talk now because she's washing her hair.

- 2 an activity happening around now, but perhaps not at the moment of speaking.

He's studying maths at university.

- 3 a planned future arrangement.

I'm seeing the doctor at 10.00 tomorrow.
What are you doing this evening?

2.3 Present Simple and Present Continuous

- 1 Read the right and wrong sentences.

Fraser comes from Scotland.

Similar verbs are think, agree, understand, and love.

Have you got an iPhone? Yes, I have./No, I haven't.

Note

We can use contractions ('ve and 's) with have got, but not with have.

I've got a sister.
I have a sister. NOT ~~I've a sister.~~

Use

- 1 Have and have got mean the same. Have got is more informal. We use it a lot when we speak, but not so much when we write.

Have you got the time?
The UK has a population of 60 million.

In American English, have + do/does is much more common.

- 2 Have and have got express possession.

I have I've got	a new car.
She has She's got	three children.
He has He's got	blond hair.

- 3 When have + noun expresses an activity or a habit, have (not have got) is used. Look at these sentences.

I have a shower every day.
NOT ~~I've got a shower every day.~~
What time do you have lunch?
NOT ~~What time have you got lunch?~~

- 4 In the past tense, we use had with did and didn't.

Are there lots of tourists in your country?
There isn't a lot of butter, but there's enough.

- 1 The indefinite article a or an is used with singular, countable nouns to refer to a thing or an idea for the first time.

We have a cat and a dog.
There's a supermarket in Adam Street.

- 2 The definite article the is used with singular and plural, countable and uncountable nouns when both the speaker and the listener know the thing or idea already.

Unit 5

5.1 Verb patterns

Here are four verb patterns. There is a list of verb patterns on p158.

- 1 Verb + to + infinitive

They want to buy a new car. I'd like to go abroad.

Thanks. I'd love to dance. = At a party, I'm pleased you asked me.*

Question

*Would you like to dance?
Would you like to come for a walk?*

Short answer

*Yes, I would./Yes, I'd love to.
Yes, I would./No, thank you.*

Note

No, I wouldn't is not common because it is impolite.

5.2 Future forms

will

Form

will + infinitive without to

Will is a modal auxiliary verb. There is an introduction to modal auxiliary verbs on p150. The forms of will are the same for all persons.

Positive and negative

I/He/She/It/You/We/They	'll (will) won't	come. help you. invite Tom.

Question

What time will he/you/they be back?

Short answer

'Will you help me?' 'Yes, I will.'

Note

No, I won't is impolite. It means 'I don't want to help you.'
A polite way of saying no here is 'I'm afraid I can't.'

'Will you give me a lift?' 'Sorry, I'm afraid I can't.'

Use

Will is used:

- 1 to express a future intention made at the moment of speaking.

*'It's Jane's birthday.' 'Is it? I'll buy her some flowers.'
I'll give you my phone number.
'Do you want the blue or the red pen?' 'I'll take the red one.'*

- 2 to express an offer.

I'll carry your suitcase. We'll do the washing-up.

- 3 to express a future fact. The speaker thinks it is sure to happen in the future.

I'll be 30 next week. It will be a nice day tomorrow.

This use is called the Pure Future. The speaker is talking about the future without expressing an intention, plan, or personal opinion.

Form

am/is/are + going to + infinitive

Positive and negative

I	'm (am) 'm not	going to leave.
He/She/It	's (is) isn't
You/We/They	're (are) aren't

Question

When	am	I	going to arrive?
	is	he/she/it
	are	you/we/they

Short answer

Are they going to get married? Yes, they are./No, they aren't.

Use

Going to is used:

- 1 to express a future decision, intention, or plan made before the moment of speaking.

*How long are they going to stay in Rome?
She isn't going to have a birthday party.*

- 2 when we can see or feel now that something is certain to happen in the future.

*Look at these clouds! It's going to rain.
Watch out! You're going to drop that vase.*

will or going to?

Look at the use of will and going to in these sentences.

*I'm going to make a chicken casserole for dinner.
(I decided this morning and bought everything for it.)
What can I cook for dinner? Er ... I know! I'll make a chicken casserole! (I decided at the moment of speaking.)*

Present Continuous

The Present Continuous for the future is used:

- 1 to express a planned future arrangement.

*I'm meeting my cousin for lunch.
What are you doing this weekend?
We're having a party. Can you come?*

- 2 with the verbs go and come.

*She's coming on Friday.
I'm going home early tonight.*

Sometimes there is little or no difference between going to and the Present Continuous to express a future arrangement.

*We're seeing a film this evening.
We're going to see a film this evening.*

Unit 6

6.1 Present Perfect

Form

have/has + -ed (past participle)

The past participle of regular verbs ends in -ed. There are many common irregular verbs. See the list on p158.

Positive and negative

I/You/We/They	've (have) haven't	won a competition.
He/She/It	's (has) hasn't

Question

Have	I you/we/they	been to the United States?
Has	he/she/it

Short answer

*Have you been to Las Vegas? Yes, I have./No, I haven't.
Has she ever written a novel? Yes, she has./No, she hasn't.

Note

We cannot use I've, they've, he's, etc. in short answers.

Yes, I have. NOT ~~Yes, I've.~~ Yes, we have. NOT ~~Yes, we've.~~

Use

- 1 The Present Perfect expresses an action or state which began in the past and continues to the present.

*I've known John for six years.
How long have you worked for The London Gazette?*

The time expressions for and since are common with this use.

We use for with a period of time, and since with a point in time.

*We've lived here for three years. (a period of time)
They've lived here since 2010. (a point in time)*

Note

In many languages, this use is expressed by a present tense. But in English, we say:

*Peter has been a teacher for ten years.
NOT ~~Peter is a teacher for ten years.~~*

- 2 The Present Perfect connects the present and the past. It expresses experiences in life before now.

*I've met a lot of famous people. (before now)
She has won a lot of awards. (in her life)
I've travelled a lot in Africa. (in my life)
She's written three books. (up to now)*

The action can continue to the present, and probably into the future.

He's made six TV programmes. (So far. He'll probably make more.)

Ever and never are common with this use.

Have you ever been to Africa? I've never played poker.

- 3 The Present Perfect expresses a past action with results in the present. It is often a recent past action.

*I've lost my wallet. (I haven't got it now.)
The taxi's arrived. (It's outside the door now.)
Has the postman been? (Is there a parcel for me?)*

The adverbs just, already and yet are common with this use. Yet is used in questions and negatives.

*She's just had some good news.
I've already had breakfast.
Has the postman been yet?
It's 11.00 and she hasn't got up yet.*

6.2 Present Perfect and Past Simple

- 1 Read and compare the use of the Past Simple and the Present Perfect in these sentences.

*I lived in Paris for two years, from 2007–2009. (The action is finished.)
I've lived in London since 2009. (I still do. The action is not finished.)
I've been to Scotland. (This is an experience in my life.)
I went with my husband two years ago. (At a definite past time.)
'Have you ever flown in a helicopter?' 'Yes, I have.'
'Where did you fly?' 'I flew over New York.'
'Oh dear, I've broken my glasses.'
'What happened?'
'I dropped them.'*

- 2 These are common time expressions used with the Past Simple and the Present Perfect.

Past Simple	Present Perfect
last week	since Monday
yesterday	ever
the day before yesterday	never in 1999	just on July 21st	already
three months ago	yet
for two weeks (but now ended)	for two weeks (and continues)

6.3 Question tags

- Question tags are very common in spoken English. With falling intonation, they are not really questions. They help to keep a conversation going, and mean, 'say something to agree with me'. The patterns for forming question tags are:

positive sentence – negative tag

*It's great, isn't it?

or negative sentence – positive tag

*Life wasn't easy then, was it?

- We repeat the auxiliary verb in a question tag. If there is no auxiliary, use do/does/did.

*You've lived in Australia for years, haven't you?

*You will stay in touch, won't you?

*He didn't call last night, did he?

*The post office closes at 5.30, doesn't it?

*You wanted to be late, didn't you?

Note

For negative question tags with I'm ..., use aren't.

I'm late, aren't I? (but I'm not late, am I?)

Unit 7

7.1 What ... like?

Form

What + to be + subject + like?

'What's your teacher like?' 'She's very patient.'

'What are his parents like?' 'They're very kind.'

'What was your holiday like?' 'Wonderful. We swam a lot.'

'What were the beaches like?' 'OK, but some were dirty.'

Note

- We don't use like in the answer.

She's patient. NOT ~~She's like patient.~~

- Like* in this question is a preposition, not a verb:

'What's Jim like?' 'He's intelligent and kind, and very good-looking.'

- In these sentences like is a verb:

'What does Jim like?' 'He likes motorbikes and playing tennis.'

Use

- What ... like?* means 'Describe somebody or something. Tell me about it. I don't know anything about it.'
- How's your mother?* asks about health. It doesn't ask for a description.

'How's your mother?' 'She's very well, thank you.'

7.2 Comparative and superlative adjectives

Form

- Look at the chart.

		Comparative	Superlative
Short adjectives	cheap small *big	cheaper smaller bigger	cheapest smallest biggest

Adjectives that end in -y	funny early heavy	funnier earlier heavier	funniest earliest heaviest
Adjectives with two syllables or more	careful boring expensive interesting	more careful more boring more expensive more interesting	most careful most boring most expensive most interesting
Irregular adjectives	far good bad	further better worse	furthest best worst

*For short adjectives with one vowel + one consonant, double the consonant: hot/hotter/hottest; fat/fatter/fattest.

- Than* is often used after a comparative adjective.

Barbara's more intelligent than Sarah.

Much can come before the comparative to give emphasis.

She's much nicer than her sister.

Is Tokyo much more modern than London?

- The* is used before superlative adjectives.

He's the funniest boy in the class.

Which is the tallest building in the world?

Use

- Comparatives compare one thing, person, or action with another.

She's taller than me.

London's more expensive than Rome.

- We use superlatives to compare somebody or something with the whole group.

She's the tallest in the class.

It's the most expensive hotel in the world.

- As ... as* shows that something is the same or equal.

Jim's as tall as Peter.

I'm as worried as you are.

- Not as ... as* shows that something isn't the same or equal.

She isn't as tall as her mother.

He isn't nearly as clever as me!

7.3 Relative pronouns

We use relative pronouns to join sentences, when the second sentence gives us important information. They tell us which thing or person we are talking about. We use which or that for things, who for people, and where for places.

The book is really good. (Which book?) You gave me it.

The book which/that you gave me is really good.

I saw the boy. (Which boy?) He lives next door.

This is a photo of the church. (Which church?) We got married there.

Unit 8

I had to get up early this morning.
Why did you have to work last weekend?
I didn't have to do any housework when I was a child.

Use

- 1 Have to expresses strong obligation. The obligation comes from 'outside' – perhaps a law, a rule at school or work, or someone in authority.

You have to pass a driving test if you want to drive a car. (That's the law.)
I have to start work at 8.00. (My company says I must.)
The doctor says I have to do more exercise.

You don't have to do the washing-up. I've got a dishwasher.
She doesn't have to work on Monday. It's her day off.
I didn't have to get up early this morning, but I did get up because it was such a lovely day.

Note

Have got to is more informal. It usually expresses an obligation on one particular occasion.

Look at the time! I've got to go.
I'm going to bed. I've got to get up early tomorrow.
She's got to work hard. Her exams start next week.

The forms of have got to + infinitive are the same as have got + noun. See p144.

8.2 Introduction to modal auxiliary verbs

Form

These are modal auxiliary verbs.

can could must shall should will would

They have certain things in common:

- 1 They go with another verb and add meaning.

He can play the guitar.
I must wash my hair.

- 2 There is no s in the third person singular. The form is the same for all persons.

She can dance very well.
He should try harder.
It will rain soon.
We must hurry.

- 3 There is no do/does in the question.

Can she sing?
Shall we go now?

- 4 There is no don't/doesn't in the negative.

I wouldn't like to be a teacher.
They can't speak French.

Note

will not = won't
It won't rain tomorrow.

- 5 Most modal verbs refer to the present and future. Only can has a past tense form, could.

I could swim when I was three.

8.3 should

Form

should + infinitive without to

The forms of should are the same for all persons.

Positive and negative

I	should shouldn't	do more exercise. tell lies.
You/We/They

Question

Should I/she/they see a doctor?
Do you think I/he/we should see a doctor?

Short answer

Should I phone home? Yes, you should.
Should I buy a motorbike? No, you shouldn't.

Use

- 1 Should is used to express what the speaker thinks is the best thing to do. It expresses mild obligation, or advice.

I should do more work. (This is my opinion.)
You should do more work. (This is my advice.)
Do you think we should stop? (I'm asking for your opinion.)

- 2 Shouldn't expresses negative advice.

I think politicians should listen more.
I don't think people should get married until they're 21.

8.4 must

Form

must + infinitive without to

The forms of must are the same for all persons.

Positive and negative

I You/We/They He/She	must mustn't	try harder. steal.
----------------------------	-----------------	-----------------------

Note

Questions with must are possible, but have to is more common.

What time do we have to leave?

Use

- 1 Must expresses strong obligation. Generally, this obligation comes from 'inside' the speaker.

I must have a shower. (I think this is necessary.)
We must get a new car.

- 2 You must ... can be used to give strong advice.

You must go for a walk at least once a week.*

Question

Had	I he/she/it we/you/they	left already?
-----	-------------------------------	---------------

Short answer

Yes, I had. No, they hadn't.

Use

- 1 We use the Past Perfect to express an action in the past which happened before another action in the past.

When I arrived at the theatre, the play had already started.

- 2 We use the Past Simple to express actions in the order they happened.

Look at these actions in the Past Simple.

Action 1 The bear went. John left the party. They walked a long way.	Action 2 The man came down from the tree. I arrived. They were tired.
--	---

Notice how they are expressed using the Past Perfect.

Action 2

The man came down from the tree ... after the bear had gone.
When I arrived at the party ... John had left.

Action 1

- 3 If it is clear that one action was completed before, it isn't necessary to use the Past Perfect.

I tidied up after everyone went home.
I tidied up after everyone had gone home.

9.2 Joining words

We use conjunctions to join sentences.

- 1 When, while, as soon as, after, before, as and until, are conjunctions of time. They can go in two places in the sentence.

When I arrived home, Tom was cooking the meal.*
Tom was talking to me while he was cooking the meal.
As soon as I arrived home, Tom started cooking the meal.*
Tom cooked the meal after I arrived/I'd arrived home.
He had cooked the meal before I arrived home.
As he was talking, I was thinking about the last time we'd met.*
He didn't start cooking the meal until I arrived home.

- 2 So is a conjunction of result.

He was bored so he went for a walk.

because is a conjunction of reason.

He went for a walk because he was bored.

- 3 But and although are conjunctions which join contrasting ideas.

It was raining, but we played tennis.
Although it was raining, we played tennis.*

9.3 so, such (a), so many, so much

Form

so + adjective/adverb

I was so scared.
He always drives so fast.

such a + adjective + singular noun

She's such a nice person.

such + adjective + plural/uncountable noun

The Smiths are such friendly neighbours.

so many + plural nouns

Some children have so many toys.

so much + uncountable nouns

Footballers earn so much money these days.

Use

So and such are used for emphasizing an adjective or noun. They are used more in spoken than written English. They are often exclamations, with an exclamation mark (!).

He works so hard! is stronger than He works very hard.

Unit 10

10.1 Passives

Form

am/is/are was/were has/have been will	past participle
--	-----------------

The past participle of regular verbs ends in -ed. There are many common irregular past participles. See the list on p158.

Present

English is spoken all over the world.
100 million mobile phones are thrown away every year.
Fiat cars aren't made in France.
Where is coffee grown?

Past

The first text message was sent in 1989.
They weren't injured in the accident.
When was television invented?

Present Perfect

A lot of new features have been added.
The bank's been robbed!
We haven't been invited to the wedding.

will

10,000 cars will be produced next year.
The cars won't be sold in the UK.

Short answers

Are cars made in your country? Yes, they are./No, they aren't.
Has my car been repaired? Yes, it has./No, it hasn't.
Will landline phones be replaced by mobiles? Yes, they will./No, they won't.

Note

The passive infinitive (to be + -ed) is used after modal auxiliary verbs and other verbs which are followed by an infinitive.

Driving should be banned in city centres.
The house is going to be knocked down.

Use

- The rules for tense usage in the passive are the same as in the active.

Present Simple to express habit:

My car is serviced regularly.

Past Simple to express a finished action in the past:

America was discovered by Christopher Columbus.

Present Perfect to express an action which began in the past and continues to the present:

Smartphones have been sold since 2007.

- The object of an active verb becomes the subject of a passive verb. Notice the use of by in the passive sentence.

- The passive is not just another way of expressing the same sentence in the active. We choose the active or the passive depending on what we are more interested in.

Hamlet was written in 1600. (We are more interested in Hamlet.)
Shakespeare wrote Hamlet in 1600. (We are more interested in who wrote it.)

Note

The subject of an active sentence is not mentioned in the passive sentence if it is not really important.

Active People speak German in parts of Italy.
Passive German is spoken in parts of Italy.
NOT ~~German is spoken in parts of Italy by people.~~

Unit 11

11.1 Present Perfect Simple and Continuous

Form

has/have + been + -ing (present participle)

Positive and negative

I You We They	've (have) haven't	been working.
He She It	's (has) hasn't

Question

How long	have	I you we they	been working?
	has	he she it

Short answer

Have you been running? Yes, I have./No, I haven't.

Use

The Present Perfect Continuous is used:

- to express an activity which began in the past and continues to the present.

He's been teaching music for years.
It's been raining for days.

- to refer to an activity with a result in the present.

I'm hot because I've been running.
I haven't got any money because I've been shopping.

Note

- Sometimes there is little or no difference in meaning between the Present Perfect Simple and Continuous.

How long have you worked here?
How long have you been working here?

- 2 Some verbs have the idea of a long time – wait, work, learn, travel, play.

These verbs can often be found in the Present Perfect Continuous.

I've been waiting for hours.

Some verbs don't have the idea of a long time – find, start, buy, die, lose, break, stop. It is unusual to find these in the Present Perfect Continuous.

I've bought a new dress.

My cat has died.

My radio's broken.

- 3 Verbs that express a state – like, love, know, have (for possession), are not found in the Present Perfect Continuous.

We've known each other for a few weeks.

NOT ~~We've been knowing~~ each other for a few weeks.

- 4 If the sentence gives a number or a quantity, the Present Perfect Simple is used. The Continuous is not possible.

I've been writing emails all morning. I've written twenty.

NOT ~~I've been writing~~ 20.

Unit 12

12.1 First Conditional

Form

If + Present Simple, will + infinitive without to

Positive and negative

If I work hard, I'll pass my exams.

If we don't hurry up, we'll be late.

If you're late, I won't wait for you.

Question

What will you do if you don't go to university?

Short answer

Will you go to university if you pass your exams? Yes, I will.
No, I won't.

Notes

- 1 English uses a present tense in the condition clause, not a future form.

If it rains, I'll stay home. NOT ~~if it will rain~~...

If I work hard, I'll pass. NOT ~~if I'll work hard~~...

- 2 The condition clause (if) can come at the beginning of the sentence or at the end. Notice the use of the comma.

If I work hard, I'll pass my exams.

I'll pass my exams if I work hard.

Use

The first conditional is used to express a possible condition and a probable result in the future.

If it's sunny, we'll go for a picnic.

You'll get wet if you don't take an umbrella.

If and when

If expresses a possibility that something will happen.

When expresses what the speaker sees as certain to happen.

When I get home, I'll have a shower. NOT ~~if I get home~~

12.2 might

Form

might + infinitive without to

Might is a modal auxiliary verb. For an introduction to modal auxiliary verbs, see p150.

The forms of might are the same for all persons.

Positive and negative

I		go to the party.
He	might	be late.
It	might not	rain tomorrow.
We		go out for a meal tonight.

Note

The negative is often expressed with I don't think + will.

I don't think it'll rain tomorrow.

Question

The inverted question Might you ... ? is unusual. It is very common to ask a question with Do you think ... + will ... ?

Do you think	it'll rain? they'll come to our party?

Short answer

Do you think it'll rain? It might.

Use

Might is used to express a future possibility. It means will perhaps.

It contrasts with will, which expresses a future certainty.

England will win the match.

(I am sure they will.)

England might win the match.

(It's possible, but I'm not sure.)

12.3 Second Conditional

Form

If + Past Simple, would + infinitive without to

Would is a modal auxiliary verb. There is an introduction to modal auxiliary verbs on p150.

The forms of would are the same for all persons.

Positive and negative

If I had more money, I'd (would) buy a new computer.

If she knew the answer, she'd tell us.

If I didn't like you, I wouldn't talk to you.

Question

What would you do if you had a year off?

Short answer

Would you travel round the world? Yes, I would.
No, I wouldn't.
If they had the money, would they Yes, they would.
buy a new car? No, they wouldn't.

Notes

- 1 As with the First Conditional, the condition clause can come at the beginning or the end of the sentence.

If I had more time, I'd help.
I'd help if I had more time.

- 2 Were is often used instead of was in the condition clause.

If I were you, I'd go to bed.
If he were taller, he'd be a policeman.

- 3 The use of the past tense (If I had) and would does not refer to past time. It expresses distance from the present and unreality because it is different from the facts we know.

If I had ... (but I don't have ...)
I would ... (but I won't ...)

Use

- 1 The Second Conditional is used to express an unreal or improbable condition and its result. The use of past forms show that it is not reality.

If I were the President, I'd stop all war.
(But I'm not the President. = reality)
If I lived in a big house, I'd have a party. (But I live in a small flat.)

- 2 The phrase, If I were you, I'd ... is often used to give advice.

If I were you, I'd call the doctor.

First and Second Conditional

The First Conditional is possible and probable.

The Second Conditional is improbable and sometimes impossible.

If I win the tennis match, I'll be so happy. (I think it's possible.)
If I won the tennis match, I'd be so happy. (But I don't think I will.)

Quiz scores

10-15 You like being with others, but is it a choice for you or is it always a need? Try spending more time alone, perhaps for a short time at first – for some people it takes practice! You often do what others tell you to do, and you need to fight for yourself sometimes – and not just because this quiz told you to!

16-23 You know that friends are important in life, but you understand that other people can't solve all your problems. You're experimenting with 'doing your own thing' more and trying to be more independent, but you never forget that we all need other people sometimes.

24-30 You're very independent and probably don't care what this quiz tells you! You enjoy being with other people, but you're equally happy alone and don't need others to give you confidence. Do just check – are you possibly a bit scared of being dependent on anyone?!

AUNT CAMILLA'S PORTRAIT

My Aunt Camilla is quite old and very rich indeed. One day she was looking in the mirror when she suddenly decided that she wanted a portrait of herself. Immediately, she booked an appointment with the world-famous portrait painter, Rolf Unwin.

Twice a week she went to his studio. Rolf worked extremely hard and painted her portrait very carefully and secretly. He didn't want my aunt to see the picture until it was completely finished.

Finally, after three months, the portrait was ready. My aunt was very excited and hurried to the studio to see it. The portrait was excellent – it looked exactly like my aunt. Unfortunately, she was absolutely furious and refused to pay Rolf. She ordered him to paint it again.

This time my aunt didn't visit the studio at all. After another three months the portrait was ready and my aunt went to see it. The face was that of a beautiful, young girl (in fact it was Rolf's girlfriend, Cassandra), and it didn't look like my aunt at all, but of course she absolutely loved it. She paid Rolf very generously indeed, so he and Cassandra had enough money to get married and they all lived happily ever after.

THE MAN WITH THE GOLDEN GUN

A summary

Francisco Scaramanga is an assassin or 'hit man' who charges $1 million a job. He is called 'the man with the golden gun' because of the golden gun he carries and the gold bullets he uses. He has already killed one British spy, 002, so when James Bond receives a gold bullet with 007 engraved on it, he knows he is next on Scaramanga's list. M, James Bond's boss, says James cannot do any more work as a secret agent until Scaramanga is caught and killed. The gold bullet was made in China, so James leaves for Hong Kong, where he meets a fellow secret agent, Mary Goodnight. Unfortunately, Scaramanga follows Mary to Bond's hotel and, after a fight, captures her and takes her to his secret island. James escapes and flies after them to the island. There, he not only saves Mary and shoots Scaramanga, but also finds the 'solar agitator' which Scaramanga was planning to use to rule the world. James and Mary sail away together on a slow boat back from China.

Writing

The burglar who fell asleep

One warm, summer's evening last June, a French burglar broke into a beautiful, luxurious house in the centre of Paris. First he went to the living room, which was full of expensive Chinese vases and silver plates, and he quickly and quietly put them into his large sack. Next he went to the kitchen and found some delicious cheese. There were also two bottles of the best champagne. He was feeling quite hungry so he ate the cheese. He was also feeling very thirsty because it was a warm night, so he quickly drank all the champagne. After that he decided to look upstairs, but suddenly he felt really tired. He saw a big, comfortable bed. He climbed onto it and fell fast asleep. He slept very well. Unfortunately the next morning when he woke up, three policemen were standing round his bed.
