School

- School doesn't prepare students for life. They should be taught practical things, like childcare, and how to cook healthy food.
- Physical education should be optional, and boys and girls should be taught PE separately.
- Elementary school students shouldn't get any homework, and high school students not more than one hour a night during the week.
- Schools should spend most of the time on math, science, and IT, and less on liberal arts subjects like history and literature.

College

- College classes are too expensive. They should be affordable for all students.
- Full-time college students shouldn't be allowed to have jobs during the school semesters.
- Students should choose to study a subject they love, not necessarily one that will get them a good job.
- College students should live independently, not with their parents.
